OBITUARIES.

Troy Conference.

William Griffin was born in Delaware County, N. Y., July 25, 1816, and joined the Troy Conference in 1835. His abilities were soon manifested, and in six years he was stationed at the capital and sudsequently was assigned to many important stations. In 1859 he was made presiding elder of the Plattsburg District; in 1860–63, of the Albany District; in 1864–67, of the Troy District. He was a member of the General Conferences of 1856, 1860, 1864, and 1888. His voice was not often heard in the Annual Conference, but when he spoke he was listened to with marked attention. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred by Wesleyan University, of which institution he was for many years a trustee. As a preacher he was clear and forceful, at times reaching a high plane of melting eloquence. He had extraordinary executive ability, developing a marked capacity for leadership; he was a wise administrator of discipline, an authority in ecclesiastical and parliamentary law, and for many years was noted as a debater. Thirty years ago, at his request, he was granted a supernumerary relation. Large business interests had come into his hands, which he managed with remarkable sagacity and corresponding success. The accruing revenues were not permitted to rust in iron coffers. No man felt more profoundly than he the value of Christian education. For furthering this end he made princely contributions toward the endowment of Cazenovia Seminary, of Syracuse and Wesleyan Universities, and of Drew Theological Seminary. A timely loan or gift to an ambitious young man struggling to achieve an education would send him on his way rejoicing. It was mainly to his generous example and personal influence that his Conference owes the establishment of an endowment fund of $63,000 for the benefit of the worn-out-preachers. In 1886 he was elected president of the Round Lake Association at a critical period in its history. In the discharge of his weighty and complicated duties he brought the wide experience and matured wisdom of his sixty-nine years. To the permanent establishment of the Summer Schools and the Preachers' Institute at Round Lake he devoted his time, his care, his thought, and his substance for the last twelve years of his life. Should a stranger visiting that beautiful little city by the lake inquire for the monument of Dr. Griffin, any child of a cottager might answer, "Look around you!" Who can forget the patriarchal figure he presented as with silver hair and white beard he appeared on the auditorium platform, or who could fail to be touched with his grave and tender addresses, yet always courageous and hopeful? Full of years, of beneficent labors for the upbuilding of two generations, and of earthly honors, he has passed to his assured reward and rests from his labors.

Francis Asbury Soule was born in Livermore, Me., April 27, 1817, and died in Ann Arbor, Mich., November 4, 1897. He was a descendant of George Soule, of the Mayflower, and a nephew of Bishop Joshua Soule. His early years were spent among the rugged scenes of his birth in the usual pursuits of New England boys. His home was one of piety and affection. His early educational advantages were limited, but he made the most possible of them, and formed those studious habits which characterized his subsequent life. He was early the subject of deep religious impressions, and at nineteen his conversion was powerful, and made a deep impression upon his associates. He entered with zeal upon the Christian life, and a sweeping revival began in the neighborhood. A license to preach and a recommendation to the traveling connection followed within the next two years. In 1838 he was received on trial in the East Maine Conference, and for over thirty years continued to preach in the power of the Spirit. Precious results attended his ministry; in one revival more than a thousand souls were led to the Saviour. His appointments in the East Maine Conference were: Rumford and Dixfield Circuit, Lincoln, Burlington, Eastport, Sageville, Palmyra, West Kennebunk, Kennebunkport, West Pittston, Hampden, Orrington, Exeter and Stetson, Wiscasset, Orrington again, Bucksport District, Rockland District. In 1861 he was transferred to the Troy Conference, and was subsequently stationed at Jonesville, Nassau, North Pittstown, Union Village, Sandy Hill. On July 4, 1843, he married Miss Susan Allen Sprague, of Pembroke, Me. The two living children are Julius E. Soule, of Philadelphia, and Ellen Soule Carhart, the wife of Professor Henry S. Carhart, of Ann Arbor, Mich. In 1871 the invalidism of his wife necessitating his retirement from the itineracy, he requested a supernumerary relation, and removed to Sing Sing. In 1891 he and his wife removed to Ann Arbor, Mich., and remained in the home of their daughter until both were removed the same week to the home beyond. His pastor writes: "His illness began on his eightieth birthday. Gradually but steadily he declined in health, suffering excruciatingly much of the time, yet trusting lovingly in the heavenly Father. Throughout his illness religion was the theme uppermost in his mind, and he passed over into the other life leaving an unsullied record that is at once an honor to his distinguished ancestors and to his descendants." He was massive in frame and possessed strong mental endowments, thoroughly cultivated. His sermons were marked by breadth of thought, convincing, reasoning, tenderness, and spirituality. His administrative ability was unusual. As a presiding elder he was greatly beloved. The churches grew strong and broad under his care. During his residence in Ann Arbor he wrote a treatise on the "Sermon on the Mount," one on "Sin," and one on the "Mission of Suffering." He read Dr. John Lord's historical lectures and the histories of Prescott, Motley, MacCaulay, Carlisle, and Mosheim. His self-distrust exerted a powerful influence on his entire life. When one got below the surface of this sensitive reserve and found the real man, what heart ever possessed a greater spring of love, what generosity was ever so unselfish, what helpfulness was ever so glad and spontaneous, what sympathy was ever so deep and tender? "He bore without reproach the grand old name of gentleman." His manner was always gracious, whether he addressed a servant or a dignitary. Even in his mortal illness to nurses and attendants he was the same unselfish, courteous gentleman. Mrs. Carhart writes: "No knight of chivalry could have saluted his lady fair with more deference and graceful obeisance than my father showed during his last brief visit of farewell in my mother's sick room. It was ideal. God pity us women that such love is so rare!"

PETER M. HITCHCOCK was born in Stanbridge, Province of Quebec, October 1, 1807, and died at the home of his son in Glens Falls, N. Y., April 8, 1898. His father, Barnabas Hitchcock, and his uncle, Luke Hitchcock, were well-known ministers in the early days of Canadian Methodism. At eight he was a newsboy in the streets of Montreal. While a mere boy he was converted, and before he was seventeen had already been licensed as an exhorter and then as a local preacher. Soon after reaching his majority he crossed into the United States and for several years served as junior preacher on large circuits about Lake Champlain. In 1834 he joined the Troy Conference, and at his death was, with one exception, the oldest member of that body. The following were his appointments: Granville, Leicester, Sandlake, Cambridge, New Lebanon, Pittsfield, Johnstown, West Station, Albany, Schuylerville, Salem, Mechanicville and Stillwater, Waterford, Middlebury, Sandy Hill, Granville again, Luzerne, Tomhannock, Greenfield, Nassau, Argyle, Castleton, South Adams, Cooksboro, Pottersville, Ticonderoga, supernumerary, superannuated. His first wife was Phœbe Jane Pierson, whom he married September 11, 1834, at Fort Ann. Her death occurred May 14, 1855, at Middlebury, Vt. On May 22, 1856, he married a cousin of his first wife, Henrietta Pierson, who preceded him by two years to the home above. He was a tall, splendidly-built man, and in the vigor of manhood must have been a commanding figure. As a preacher he was forceful and logical. He loved to dwell upon the great truths of Scripture. After he reached his ninetieth year he still continued to preach Christ. In prayer meeting and other religious gatherings one frequently heard him say, "I delight to preach the word," or, "I delight in the service of the Lord." Everyone felt the power of his hopeful, genial spirit. During his long life he saw many changes in both Church and society. But he grew more joyful and hopeful with every passing year. As fruit ripens and mellows by every breeze and shower and ray of sunshine, so his heart ripened for the kingdom. Like some glorious summer's day his long life drew to its close. Without organic disease or any great pain, he literally "fell on sleep." He died on the morning of Good Friday, and was buried in the afternoon of Easter Sabbath from the Methodist Episcopal church in Glens Falls which he had attended so many years.

JAMES HENRY BOND was born in Tregony, Cornwall County, England, in 1836, and died March 8, 1898. At five he came with his parents to Montreal, Canada. His father died shortly after their arrival. His early education was limited. While a young man he crossed over into New York State and settled in Ticonderoga. Here he gave himself to God at a camp meeting held on the present Crown Point Charge. He received a clear call to preach, yet hesitated on account of his meager preparation. After a few years as local preacher he was received on probation in the Troy Conference in 1869. His appointments were: West Cornwall and East Middlebury, North Ferrisburg, Williston, Willsboro, Keeseville, the Plattsburg District, Benson, West Rutland, Keeseville, and Sandy Hill. During his ministerial life he resided twelve years in Keeseville, where he was known and loved by all. His record was clean, his life was useful, and he died at peace with God and man. He married Susan C. Walker February 25, 1855. Although his home-life was for many years shadowed by the affliction of his wife, he nevertheless did heroic work in the various churches where he labored. He was a member of the General Conference of 1884. He was unusually gifted as an extemporaneous preacher, and often rose to the high altitude of sacred eloquence. He was an ardent and persistent student of the word, and delighted in the contemplation of the deep things of God. His sermons were largely expository. In the civil war he enlisted as a private in the Fifth New York Cavalry, and was honorably discharged as quartermaster sergeant. After retiring from the active work he resided with his daughter at Keeseville. His last sickness was one of severe pain, and sad forebodings were permitted to try him, yet his trust in things divine was unshaken, and he died to await the resurrection of the just. During his funeral services all the business houses of Keeseville closed their doors as a mark of honor to one whom they had known and respected. He leaves a widow, with five adult daughters and four sons. Dr. Joseph Cook, of Boston, writing to one of the family, said, "I know the noble, martial, heroic deeds he wrought for the land of his adoption. Born in England, he was as patriotic an American as I ever met. He was a soldier of the cross, and as such was brave, sagacious, unflinching, victorious. I mourn with you as if he had been a brother of my own."

LOYAL HARRY BRADFORD was born in Crown Point, N. Y., October 4, 1874, and died at Manchester Center, March 9, 1898, of appendicitis, after an illness of four days. He was the eldest son of C. A. Bradford, of the Troy Conference. He was converted during his boyhood, and for five years attended the high school at Vergennes. He was licensed to preach in 1896, and in the following September entered the Boston School of Theology. In 1897 he was received on trial in the Troy Conference and served the Ripton and East Middlebury Charge till September, when he was relieved to attend the Yale Divinity School. He knew and loved the stars from his childhood; and five years of studying astronomical works made him a master before he attained his majority. One month after he was twenty-one he was elected a member of the Royal Astronomical Society of London. The stars to him were the witnesses of God; they sung to him of the divine hand which made them. He said once, "Much as I love astronomy, I love theology better." He was engaged to lecture on astronomy at Ocean Grove in the summer of 1898. He was a genius also with the crayon, and at Ocean Grove and Round Lake the creations of his pencil were highly appreciated. This skill gave him a rare power to draw people to the house of God. He had also rare qualities of heart. His genial warmth and cheerfulness, his unselfishness and gentleness, won him many friends. He walked in the light with God, and saw him as the pure in heart do. Only four days before he died he was in his usual health. The night before the end a surgeon announced that he had but a short time to live, but it did not ruffle his calmness or weaken his faith. To him there was no death. The presence of Jesus so charmed him that he went away with a smiling "Good-bye, we will meet in heaven."

South Kansas Conference.

WILLIAM M. BETRY, of the South Kansas Conference, died near Angola, Kan., June 16, 1897, of valvular heart disease, while on a visit. He was born at Portland, Wis., December 3, 1860. In 1867 he came with his parents to Bourbon County, Kan., where he was educated in the public schools. On December 24, 1884, he married Miss Lilly Newton, at Red Cloud, Neb. In 1885 he removed to La Grande, Ore., and in 1889 returned to Bronson, Kan. He was converted at nineteen, and felt called to preach, but hesitated until he finally became a local preacher. He supplied on the Fort Scott and Independence Districts for several years, and in 1894 joined the South Kansas Conference. He was pastor of the following circuits: Coffeyville, Jefferson, and Labette. He was serving his second year on Labette Circuit when he was suddenly called to his reward. As a preacher he was earnest, scriptural, and convincing; as a pastor helpful and genial, and as a student diligent. He leaves a wife and four children.

ANDERSON B. WALKER died May 18, 1897, at the home of his son in Tekoa, Washington. He was born in Indiana June 16, 1824. He was converted at nine, was licensed while only a boy, and gave his whole life to God. From Indiana he moved to Montgomery County, Ill., and in 1861 to Kansas. He was admitted on trial in the Kansas Conference in 1864 and appointed to Mapleton. His subsequent charges were: Iola, New Albany, supernumerary. By division of the Conference in 1873 he fell into the South Kansas Conference. There his appointments were: Cedarvale, Thayer, Buffalo, Sun City. In 1881 he became superannuated, and so remained until his death. He married Celia Williams in 1842. For several months he was confined to his bed, and through the weary hours longed to be with Christ. He was a man of untarnished character, a sincere, magnanimous soul. As a preacher he was a man of power, prevailing with God and men. Great revivals followed his efforts, and men were converted who have become preachers, both at home and in foreign fields.

New England Southern.

EPHRAIM S. FLETCHER was born in Chester, Vt., October 13, 1826, and died in Plymouth, Mass., May 18, 1897. His parents were Congregationalists, and trained their family in the tenets of that order. When about sixteen he attended revival services held in the Baptist church in Springfield, Vt., and was converted. His early educational advantages were limited to three months in the district school in the winter. When eighteen he went to Uxbridge, Mass., where he learned the wheelwright trade, and thence removed to Barth, N. Y. At twenty-five he settled in North Bridgewater (now Brockton), and resumed his business as wheelwright. In 1854 a gracious revival was enjoyed by the Methodist Episcopal church, and he renewed the consecration he had made to God in his youth. He was then in his twenty-eighth year. He was accustomed after the heavy labors of the day were ended to study far into the night to qualify himself for his religious duties. When about forty years of age he was profoundly impressed that it was his duty to preach, and, after much prayer and self-examination, he closed up his secular business and joined the New England Southern Conference. He served with acceptance the following appointments: Falmouth, Monument, Chilmark, Osterville and Centerville, Sandwich, Warehouse Point, East Bridgewater, Berkley, South Harwich. In 1890–91 he was supernumerary, and in 1892–97 superannuated. He was a man of pure character. He was sympathetic and studious. He spent much time in secret prayer. As a preacher he was scriptural, spiritual, helpful. In 1847 he married Miss Maria M. Winants, of Pen Yan, N. Y., who, with two children, survives him. He was a great sufferer for several years, especially the last two. Often when his spasms of pain would subside he would say, "All right," and these were the last words he was heard to utter. His last years were spent in Plymouth, Mass., and he was buried in the cemetery of that historic town, near Burial Hill, where lie many of the sainted pilgrims who passed to their reward in the early settlement of this country.

GEORGE A. SISSON was born in Middleboro, Mass., January 27, 1856, and died in North Dighton, Mass., April 12, 1898. He was always serious in mind, and the death of his only sister, a lovely Christian girl of twenty years, made a deep impression upon him, and resulted in his conversion at the age of twenty-one. Soon after he received a call to the ministry, but so high was his conception of that work, and so distrustful was he of his own abilities, that he long resisted. He, however, became a diligent student of the Bible, and in the surrounding neighborhood, as he had opportunity, was successful in winning souls, his own father being of the number. At length he entered the Maine Wesleyan Seminary to prepare for his life work. Here his influence over his fellow-students was such that many were converted. While at Kent's Hill he was given a local preacher's license and preached as opportunity offered. He graduated in 1887, and for one year supplied the church at Weld, Me. In 1889 he entered the School of Theology of Boston University and graduated in 1892. In 1891 he was received on trial in the New England Southern Conference. His appointments were: South Braintree, Fairhaven, Osterville and Marston's Mills, North Dighton. He was a manly man, commanding the respect of all who knew him. He was a diligent student, a faithful pastor, an earnest and instructive preacher. In every field he gained a large place in the hearts of the people. He married, July 30, 1891, Miss Alice H. Foster, of Westbrook, Me., who, with two children, survives. In March, 1898, a severe cold prostrated him, but from this he recovered somewhat and was able to conduct his communion service on the first Sunday in April. Another cold taken the next day brought on ulceration of the throat, and on the following Monday diphtheria set in. He seemed aware of his near departure; he counseled his wife concerning the future, gave a dying message for his father and mother, and peacefully passed away. Thus, in his early manhood a worthy Christian minister and a brother beloved has ceased from his labors.

JOHN WILLIAMS WILLETT was born in Hanson, Mass., May 22, 1824, and died in Taunton, Mass., August 21, 1897. He early gave himself to the securing of a livelihood. He was far from evangelical in his views of religion, and was able to defend them with logic and rhetoric. Believing himself immovable, he was vanquished by the Holy Spirit attending the simple testimony of a young lad, on January 28, 1853, at the Methodist Episcopal church of South Scituate, whither he had gone to criticise what he saw and to controvert what he heard. He was suddenly confronted with the conviction that his life was in conflict with the requirements of God and his duty toward man, and must result in disaster. He at once submitted to God and accepted Christ. From that moment he began to proclaim the salvation he had found and to defend his new revelation against his former beliefs. On August 7 he was received into full membership; on September 5 he was licensed to preach, and on September 17 he was appointed in charge of the church at Yarmouth Port. In April, 1854, he was admitted to probation in the New England Southern Conference, and continued in effective service until 1892, when decline of health compelled him to retire to the non-effective ranks. He was beloved by all who knew him for his transparent purity of character, his unfailing trustworthiness, his aversion to insincerity and shams. He was as open as the day, loved God and men, lived in instant preparation for whatever God might decree, and trusted unwaveringly in the promises of Christ, whose name he recognized when all other names were apparently forgotten. For four years (1879–1882) he was presiding elder of the New Bedford District. In 1880 he led his delegation to the General Conference. He was at various periods treasurer of the Conference, of the Conference Board of Trustees, of the Conference Claimants' Fund, and of East Greenwich Seminary at a critical time in its affairs, and was always faithful in all these offices. In the pastorate he sought the conversion of sinners, looked after delinquent or missing members, built or improved churches, and labored for reform in social life. The liquor traffic found in him an uncompromising antagonist. Political corruption received no quarter from him, and all kindred wickedness met at his hands neither fear nor favor. His closing years of life were spent at Taunton, and his last resting place is in the beautiful cemetery of that city.

Northern New York Conference.

JAMES R. KAY was born in Oswegatchie, N. Y., July 26, 1846. He was soundly converted in the fall of 1880. The same night he felt a deep conviction that God wanted him to preach, but being a successful farmer, he fought against it for two years. Soon after his conversion he was made a class leader, in which capacity he served most acceptably. His first sermon was given in his home church to his neighbors and friends. In 1885 he supplied South Malone, and in 1886 was admitted on trial in the Northern New York Conference, and returned to the same place for that and the following year. In 1888 he was stationed at Colton. During his third year here his health gave out and he went to the Pacific coast to recruit, but was obliged to take a supernumerary relation the following spring. In 1892 he was appointed to Bucks Bridge. Here his health again gave way, and he was obliged to surrender his charge. On November 27, 1895, he married for his second wife Miss Julia V. Santway, and after a winter spent in Florida was able to resume his work at Edwards. In 1897 he was transferred to Hermon, where he endeared himself to all as a devoted and successful worker. He was an earnest student of the Bible, deeply spiritual in his religious life, instructive in his preaching, a faithful pastor, and a wise administrator. He died suddenly on Sunday afternoon, September, 12, 1897. He had preached with much liberty to his morning and afternoon congregations, apparently in usual health. In the class meeting he cheered all hearts by his faith and zeal. On returning from an out appointment he stepped into the session of the Junior League, but was soon compelled to leave, and on reaching the parsonage retired to his bed. For one hour and a half, fully conscious that the end had come, but graciously sustained by Christ, he suffered intensely, and then was at rest.

W. R. COBB, LEMUEL CLARK, D. D. PARKER, W. F. BROWN, W. P. HALL. [Obituaries not received.]

Upper Mississippi Conference.

THOMAS BROWN, one of the fathers of the Mississippi and Upper Mississippi Conferences, died December 20, 1897. As to his early life we know nothing, but he was something over one hundred years old. He served several charges in the Mississippi Conference with great success. Tampico Circuit was his last appointment, where he labored faithfully for three years with remarkable success. He was placed on the superannuated list in 1884, and sustained such relation until his departure to the better world.

South India Conference.

WILLIAM F. G. CURTIES was born in Kampti, in the Central Provinces, but received his education in Madras, and his later years of service were passed in this latter place. He was converted in one of William Taylor's meetings in Bombay in March, 1872. Immediately after his conversion he united with the Church, and at once, while in secular employ, commenced to make known to others "the unsearchable riches of Christ." In 1874 he offered himself for the full work of the ministry. He was sent to Igatpuri, and shortly afterward to Jabalpur. His subsequent appointments were Haidarabad and Secunderabad, Perambore, Bellary, Mhow, Allahabad, Agra, Secunderabad again, and Madras. He was a man of God, living in the "secret place of the most High," and manifesting the spirit of his Master in an eminent degree. He threw his whole soul into his work. While instrumental in leading souls to Christ he more especially excelled as a teacher in the Church. His walk with God was so intimate that he knew how to talk with God and prevail. He was a man mighty in prayer. The summons to rest and reward came while in the midst of his labors. He was attacked by cholera on August 19, 1897, and fifteen hours after the first attack he entered into the presence of the King.

New Hampshire Conference.

LARNARD LAMB EASTMAN was born in Canaan, N. H., March 12, 1813, and died in Howard, R. I., December 31, 1897. His second birth was at Hanover, N. H., in January, 1838. Four months later he was baptized and united with the Church. He soon received a distinct and peremptory order to preach the Gospel. On May 16, 1846, he was licensed to exhort, and on May 15, 1847, he was licensed to preach. In June, 1848, he joined the New Hampshire Conferenee. He served with great diligence and usefulness the following appointments: Alexandria and Hebron, Warren and Wentworth, Lancaster, Littleton, Winchester, Raymond, Amesbury, Peterboro, Sunapee, Methuen, Warren, Moultonboro, and Groveton. He was on the supernumerary list six years. In 1879 the infirmities of age constrained him to ask for a superannuated relation, in which he continued until his death. In these later years, in spite of bodily weakness, he often sang, exhorted, and preached with wonderful fervor. In 1878–80 his residence was at Haverhill, Mass. After that he lived in Methuen, Mass., where he purchased a beautiful home. He married April 3, 1839, at Canaan, N. H., Lucy Ann Currier, who, with a son and daughter, survives him. He was a man of great simplicity, and "the common people heard him gladly." He obtained the rudiments of education in the common school and made good use of them. He was a man of strong will and great force of character. Along practical lines he had a genius for planning and achieving. He was a winner and a comforter of souls. Like many of the fathers, his mind was not enriched and polished by the university. He had a strong frame and a powerful and sympathetic voice. He addressed himself to the reason and conscience with an unctuous persuasiveness. When penitent souls appealed for mercy he urged their claims with strong cries and tears, and his victorious shout was often the signal of his triumphant faith. All good people in Methuen loved him. On March 12, 1893, he celebrated his eightieth birthday amid general congratulations, and the whole service of that memorable Sabbath was made to emphasize that auspicious event. Many came to hear the octogenarian, who preached with all the old-time unction and moving power. Though somewhat bewildered by his last distressing illness, his soul was always responsive to the power and charm of prayer and Christian song. Once more the gates of paradise have opened to receive a veteran of the pioneer and heroic age of Methodism.

Maine Conference.

JOHN M. WOODBURY was born in Acton, Me., June 3, 1824, and died in Old Orchard, Me., February 23, 1898. He was converted at twelve and soon after united with the Church. He received his first license to preach September 13, 1851. He was admitted to the Maine Conference in 1853, and was appointed to Baldwin Circuit. Subsequently he served the following charges: Hollis, York, Scarboro, Baldwin Circuit again, Naples, Mechanic Falls, Wayne, Wilton, Livermore Falls, Buxton Circuit, South Portland, Kennebunk, East Poland, Scarboro again, Old Orchard, Eliot, Saco Ferry, Conway, Fryburg, Biddeford Pool, Sanford, Knightville, and Wayne again. From 1894 he was superannuated, and resided at Old Orchard, where he was stricken with paralysis, which terminated in death five hours later. He had said repeatedly after the death of his daughter in September, 1897, "I shall go and meet her soon. It will be like the blowing out of a candle." His one theme was readiness to depart and be with Christ. He was a faithful expounder of the word of God and pastor of the flock over which he was placed. He was blessed with many revivals, some of them being remarkable works of grace and sanctifying power. He leaves a wife and three children. He has bequeathed to them the legacy of a godly life and of a constant testimony to the power of God to save unto the uttermost.

Reuel H. Kimball was born in Mercer, Me., July 5, 1818, and died in that town February 20, 1898. He was converted in early life and became an active Christian. He learned the cabinet trade, and by skill and industry accumulated something of this world's goods, but at thirty-five, after deep consideration, was convinced that the Lord had called him into the ministry. He devoted a large part of his hard-earned money in attending the theological seminary at Concord. In 1862 he joined the Maine Conference and was appointed to East Wilton and Temple, where to this day his memory is fragrant and precious. He remained there two years. His subsequent charges were: Strong and Freeman, Livermore Falls, New Sharon, York, Wilton, Monmouth, South Eliot, Goodwin's Mills, Kennebunk Depot, West End, Portland, and Bowery Beach. In 1891 he became supernumerary, and in 1892 superannuated. On all his charges by his genial temperament and Christian deportment he won the esteem of his parishioners. On several he had extensive revivals, and on all his life and character illustrated the Gospel he preached. He was interesting and edifying in the pulpit, kind and tactful in the homes of his people. The last five years he spent in his native town, occupying his own house. His wife, the companion of his youth, died only twelve days before himself. His last sickness was brief, and he faced death triumphantly.

Philadelphia Conference.

Jerome Lindemuth was born June 7, 1831. His parents were Lutherans, living in Stouchburg, Pa. He was converted under the ministry of Methodism. In 1853 he was licensed as an exhorter, and in 1854 was sent to fill a vacancy on Pottstown Circuit. The following spring he was received on trial in the Philadelphia Conference and returned to Pottstown Circuit, where his ministry was attended by great revivals. His subsequent appointments were: Springfield, Schuylkill Haven, Merion Square, Conshohocken, Birdsboro, Ebenezer, Reading, Grove and Downingtown, Port Carbon, Lehigh and Parryville, Ridge Avenue, Harrisburg, Media, Marietta, South Easton, St. Paul's, Lancaster; Asbury, Front Street, Salem; South Chester, Cheltenham, Holmesburg, and Upland. In the last place his health failed, and he removed to South Chester, where, on March 24, 1897, the weary wheels of life stood still. His last days were spent peacefully in the midst of many friends, and he was uniformly cheerful and resigned to the will of God. He would arrest attention anywhere by his manly form, beaming features, gracious manners, and musical voice. His sermons were symmetrical and thoughtful. Feeling the lack of early educational advantages, he directed his energy to the making of many sermons, some of which he never preached. His kindness of heart shone out like sunshine. When too weak for conversation he rallied his strength sufficiently to say to his attendant, "What is that passage?" The brother addressed replied, "Is it this, 'I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith, the time of my departure is at hand?'" The dying man nodded again and again, and so, in the faith of the Gospel, his spirit departed.

William W. McMichael was born in Lancaster County, Pa., on August 22, 1810, and died in Philadelphia May 12, 1897. While "the dew of his youth" was upon him he gave himself to Christ and received the assurance of adoption into the family of God. In 1837 he was admitted into the Philadelphia Conference, and at his death was the oldest man and the oldest member in the Conference. During his long life he cultivated the habit of close communion with God. He was a careful and diligent student of the Scriptures and a man of high aspirations and noble impulses. He was greatly blessed in his ministrations. During his last year of pastoral work nearly three hundred people professed to find Christ. He never married, but took his parents to his home and cared for them with the tenderest interest. After they died he made his home with his sister, giving and receiving the kindest consideration.

John Willard Stilwell was born in Feasterville, Pa., February 10, 1866. He was converted at Milestown in 1883. He scarcely knew the hour of his spiritual birth, for, as he frequently said, "I knew I loved God supremely from the hour my life was turned toward him." His parents moving to Philadelphia in his early youth he graduated with honor from the public schools and Pierce's Business College. His call to the ministry was emphatic, and found him ready. He was licensed to preach in 1891, and, feeling the great responsibility resting upon him, began a systematic preparation for the work. He used all his spare moments while a trusted clerk in a city office, in the Mercantile Library, storing his mind with knowledge, and gave up his position finally to take a course at Drew Seminary. He joined the Philadelphia Conference in 1894. During his seminary life he ministered to the Richboro and Penn's Park Charge. Here men of all classes and creeds came to hear him, for he was a rare preacher, intellectual, convincing, and eloquent. The renovation of the Penn's Park church is a monument to his energy and skillful management. He then spent one year at Cornwells, and is there enshrined in the memory of old and young. The following spring he was appointed to Willow Grove, where he became very active in the reconstruction of the church, which was destroyed by an incendiary, and succeeded in bringing it to its completion. Finding his strength failing, he requested a respite from active service for rest in the Adirondacks, and then returned to his father's home in Penn's Park, where he waited the summons from on high. A little prior to his death he said, "I am not afraid to die, His will be done." He fell asleep February 24, 1898. He was an earnest preacher and a manly Christian.

Charles Wesley Buoy, D.D., was born in Milton, Pa., July 16, 1841. He was converted at seven, and was educated in Milton Academy and Dickinson College, graduating from the latter in 1866. The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him by De Pauw University, Indiana, in 1886. Feeling called to the ministry, he entered the Philadelphia Conference in 1868, and was appointed to Fairmount, Md. By the division of the Philadelphia Conference he became a member of the Wilmington Conference, and remained in Fairmount three years. He was then appointed to Salisbury, Md. Here his health failed, and he was compelled to surrender his charge. In the autumn of 1873 he became the assistant at Grace Church, Philadelphia. The following spring he was restored to the Philadelphia Conference. In 1876 he was appointed to Christ Church, West Philadelphia, and in that year married Miss Ella, daughter of Bishop Simpson. In 1879 he was transferred to the Central Pennsylvania Conference, and stationed at Grace Church, Harrisburg. In 1882 he was transferred to Colorado Conference, and appointed to Evans Chapel, Denver. The rare atmosphere proved too difficult for his sensitive lungs, and after a brief pastorate of eighteen months he returned East, where he supplied the vacant pulpit in Ebenezer Church, Philadelphia. Here he remained until 1886, when he became the pastor of Trinity Church, Philadelphia, and had the joy of seeing that fine edifice completed. In 1891 he was stationed at Western Church with the avowed purpose of developing the interests of our Church in that locality. He held on through weary years, and had his triumph in the erection of the Church of the Covenant. In 1896 he was reappointed to Trinity Church, in which he preached his last sermon on Sunday evening, October 30, 1897. Remembering that the next day would be "All Saints' Day," he discoursed on "The communion of saints in heaven and on earth." Early on Monday he entered on the mystery of suffering, the agony of physical pain, the gasping for breath, with lungs surcharged with blood, through failure of the overburdened heart. Among his last words were, "I would like to live, but the will of the Lord be done, the will of the Lord be done." After an interval, "I am nearing the gates." Then, but more faintly, "Praise to the name of Jesus!" And again, "Blessed be his name!" His last word, "Farewell," was spoken to the heart that knelt grief-stricken by his side. The character, teaching, and influence of Jesus stamped themselves on his childhood, youth, and manhood. He never wearied talking of the keeping power of the Saviour's love. He was the author of the book entitled Representative Women of Methodism. His manner was markedly reverential and an aid to devotion. In prayer his language was exquisitely select. In preaching his rhythmical English, molded by his study of the classics and the great masters, became a ready vehicle for his devout yearnings, his fine expositions, his lofty aspirations, and his earnest thought. He was a student of great subjects, a lover of books, a friend of all classes and conditions, and a humble disciple of Jesus. Winsome in manner, artistic in taste, scholarly in acquirement, he was above everything else a Gospel evangelist and a faithful preacher of righteousness. He valued education. Perhaps his most permanent monument is the Conference Seminary at Dover, Del., which sprang into being at his appeal, and has been enriched by his library since his death. He was interested in all the great social and moral reforms of the day, but taught that the energizing grace which saves comes from Christ alone. His funeral was unique. The General Board of Church Extension was then in session in Philadelphia, and adjourned to pay honor to him. All the bishops then in the United States, with the secretaries and members of the Board of Church Extension, and official editors from every section of the country were present. Addresses were given by Bishop Hurst and Bishop Fowler. His grave adjoins that of Bishop Simpson in West Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Thomas Allen Fernley, D.D., was born in Macclesfield, England, February 19, 1825. The family were among the earliest followers of Wesley. In 1859, of the forty-nine preachers on the Macclesfield Circuit plan, seven were of the Fernley family. Dr. Fernley's branch of the family came to Philadelphia in 1828, and united with the Union Church. He was converted and joined the Union Church February 12, 1838, while attending an English and classical academy. About 1841 he was licensed to exhort, and in April, 1844, being recommended by his pastor, the Rev. Levi Scott, afterward bishop, to fill the place of a junior preacher on a circuit, was appointed to the Dauphin Circuit. At the first quarterly meeting he was licensed as a local preacher. In 1845 he was received on trial and appointed to Halifax Circuit. In 1846 he was sent to Pine Grove Mission, a thriving town in the western part of Schuylkill County, in which there was no Methodist church. About six miles north of Pine Grove there had been coal mines opened and a town founded called Tremont, having about twenty miners' dwellings, a storehouse, and a log tavern. No church or schoolhouse was within six or seven miles. The barroom of the log tavern was offered for Sabbath morning service, and was accepted. Here he preached from the text, "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ." This resulted in the formation of a class and the establishment of a church. The corner stone of a stone building was laid on October 30, 1846, and a large revival followed. In 1847 he was reappointed to Pine Grove and Tremont, and on October 10, 1847, the new church was dedicated. During the year he was transferred to the pastorate in Reading. Shortly after his appointment in December, 1847, he started a series of meetings which resulted in an ingathering of one hundred and forty-nine, and necessitating the formation of a second Methodist Episcopal church in Reading. In March, 1848, he married Miss Mary E. John, of Harrisburg. In 1848 he was appointed to the Second Church, Pottsville, Pa. In 1849 he was appointed to the Chester Circuit. In 1850–51 he was senior preacher on the Elkton Circuit, Maryland. In 1852–53 he was pastor of Ebenezer, Philadelphia. In 1854–55 he was pastor of St. Peter's, Reading. In 1856 he was appointed pastor of New Market Street, Philadelphia. This charge built a new edifice on Front Street above Laurel, and in 1857 he was appointed to Front Street. In 1858–59 he served Cohocksink, Philadelphia, and during his first year the church was finished and dedicated. In 1860–61 he served Asbury, West Philadelphia; in 1862–63 Stroudsburg, Pa; in 1864–65 Front Street, Philadelphia, again; in 1866–67 Nazareth, Philadelphia; in 1868–69 Ebenezer, Reading, during which term the edifice was remodeled and modernized. On the completion of this work he called the attention of a member of the congregation to the importance of having a third church in Reading. This gentleman erected the church, which was called the Covenant, and it was dedicated by Dr. Fernley in 1869. In 1870–72 he served Eleventh Street, Philadelphia, and remodeled the church building. From 1873–76 he was stationed at Paul Street, Frankford, and during this term was instrumental in starting the Oxford Street Church. In 1876 he was assigned to North Ninth Street, Philadelphia. This year the congregation built a new edifice at the corner of Eighth and Cumberland Streets, which was named the Memorial. In 1879 he was for a third time appointed pastor of Front Street, Philadelphia. In 1883 he was appointed to Central, Roxboro, and in 1884, having been elected by the Philadelphia Sabbath Association as corresponding secretary of that body, he entered upon the duties of this office and remained therein until the end. In 1889 the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by U. S. Grant University. He was remarkably successful in the erection of new churches and the improvement of old edifices. He usually had great revivals. He was especially successful in Sunday school work and in work among young people. His interest in public affairs made him known and felt in the community where he resided. Besides his ordinary work he entered to some extent the field of journalism. He was one of the first to report the proceedings of the Annual Conference for the secular press. He was also for years the Philadelphia correspondent for The Christian Advocate. He was a man of convictions, and freely expressed them when occasion demanded. During his last two years his health was much impaired. At one time during this period it was thought he could not recover. He rallied, however, and resumed his work in connection with the Sabbath Association. There was the same buoyant spirit, but the flesh was weak, and after laboring almost to the last day of his life he peacefully passed away on December 23, 1897. His fifty-three years of public activity live in their eternal results. The Hon. John Wanamaker, exr Postmaster General of the United States, testified to his excellencies, and said, "Here is a man who, if he had entered into business, would have made a splendid success. It was impossible to have a blue Monday where Dr. Fernley was. He always saw the bright side of things. He was a consistent, earnest minister of the Gospel." Another, referring to him, has said, "He wore the white flower of a blameless life, and in the golden harvest time of a beautiful old age he has gone to his rich reward."

William J. Paxson was born in Philadelphia December 15, 1826, and died in the same city February 4, 1898. His father was a member of the Society of Orthodox Friends; his mother was trained in the Presbyterian Church. His school training was received at a private academy, where he was fitted for business, in which he engaged very early. In his youth he was attracted by the preaching of the Rev. John Chambers, of the First Independent Church, and in December, 1843, while seated in the gallery of the church, was blessedly converted under a sermon by the Rev. John N. Maffet. For about eleven years he remained in the fellowship of the First Independent Church, but did not possess the clear assurance of faith which he afterward learned was his privilege. In the winter of 1854–55 a very successful revival service was held in Eighth Street Church. One evening, after the sermon, the pastor, passing through the congregation, came to him and said, "My friend, do you enjoy religion?" He answered with frankness, "I am a professor of religion, but don't enjoy it." "Perhaps you are not conscious of the forgiveness of your sins." "That is true," he responded. Upon this confession the pastor said, "Go to that altar and ask God to give you the assurance of your forgiveness." He answered, "I will," and was soon filled with the joy of pardoned sin. This radical change, together with the thought which he gave to Methodist doctrine and polity, convinced him that in the Methodist Episcopal Church he could best glorify God. He accordingly united with Eighth Street Church, and entered upon a career of Christian activity, which ended only with his life. He was licensed to exhort in February, 1855. In November he was licensed to preach, and about a month thereafter, December, 1855, he was called from his business to serve as a supply on Newtown Circuit. In 1856 he was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference and appointed to New Castle, Del., where he remained two years. In 1858 he was appointed to Coatesville, Pa., remaining two years. His subsequent appointments were: Bethel, Zion Circuit, Stroudsburg, Kensington, St. Paul's, Summerfield, Union, presiding elder of the South Philadelphia District, Madison Street, Chester; Wharton Street, Madison Street, Chester again; Rehoboth, Frankford, St. Peter's, Reading; Mauch Chunk, the care of which he resigned in September, 1897. In October, 1851, he married Miss Anna L. Depuy, who, with three sons and three daughters, survives. He brought to the ministry a well-disciplined mind, methodical habits, and executive ability of a high order. As a preacher he was dignified and thoughtful, clear in statement, forceful in utterance, and wonderfully sympathetic and tender. As an administrator he was faithful to all the interests committed to his trust. As a winner of souls he had a large measure of success. He was a fine specimen of noble manliness, sanctified by grace, a consistent example of purity of character and uprightness of life, a wonderfully intelligent witness of the Spirit's operation on the intellect and will. He was Secretary of his Conference three years, declining reelection after his appointment to the presiding eldership, and for many years Secretary of the Conference Education Society. For eleven years he was Secretary of the Board of Church Extension and of the General Committee of Church Extension, and for a time was president of the board. He was a trustee and the first secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital. He was also a trustee of Dickinson College. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by the Ohio Wesleyan University in 1883. He was a delegate to the General Conference in 1876, 1880, 1884, 1888, and a reserve delegate in 1892. His last illness was of comparatively short duration. While pastor in Reading, in 1896, an attack of illness affected his nervous system, but he recovered considerable vigor, and in 1897 he was appointed to Mauch Chunk, where he labored with almost his normal energy until August, when he again exhibited symptoms of nervous weakness. A rest of a few weeks improved his condition, but he did not feel justified in retaining the charge. In October he came to Philadelphia to reside with his son-in-law. On Christmas Day he was taken seriously ill and gradually failed in strength. Unable to rest in bed, he died in the chair which he occupied from the commencement of the last attack. He at times suffered intense pain, but his mind was clear and his spirit joyful. To a brother minister he said, "I have not a doubt as to the truth of any of the experimental doctrines of Christianity." He frequently repeated aloud a favorite passage from the word of God, saying as he did so, "This is my experience, 'Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee, because he trusteth in thee.'" As he approached the end he was heard to repeat the words, "More than conquerors, more than conquerors."

New York East Conference.

David Smith Stevens was born in Conesville, Schoharie County, N. Y., October 26, 1834. He was reared in a strongly religious atmosphere, both his grandparents being among the early pioneers of Methodism in that county, while six uncles were ministers, Levi S. Weed, of blessed memory in the New York East Conference, being of the number. He was converted in childhood, and was early licensed to exhort. For five years he supplied under the elder. In 1868 he was admitted into the New York East Conference. In 1866, at New Village, L. I., he married Debora B. Hammond. His appointments were: Sayville and Blue Point, North Wilton, Nichol's Farms and Trumbull, West Goshen and Cornwall Center, Easton, Freeport, Cutchogue. He was scrupulously exact and prompt in his dealings, always giving at least one tenth of his income to the Lord's work. He was denied the privilege of either collegiate or theological training, but was a diligent student, and became a well-informed man. He was a good preacher, declaring without fear the "whole counsel of God." He was beloved by his parishioners, and under God succeeded in turning many to righteousness. During all his ministerial life he was fettered by physical weakness. His physicians marveled at his endurance, agreeing that they never knew anyone to do so much with so little physical strength. In 1883 he was forced to take a supernumerary relation, and in 1884, completely broken in health, he was superannuated. Locomotorataxia was the cause of his final break, and for fourteen years this disease gradually ensnared his vital energies. For more than three years he was bedridden, being unable to change his position save as lifted by loving arms. Unable also to read the largest type, or to discern color or form at any distance, he was indeed shut in; but "shut in with God," he suffered and grew strong. Once he said, "I want to suffer the whole will of the Lord." A friend, calling upon him the afternoon before he died, said, "You are very sick, are you not?" He replied, "Yes, very sick. I am nearing the end of life now." "And are you ready?" "Yes; I feel I am ready to go now." He died Saturday night, April 17, 1897, just in time to share with the heavenly celebrants in their Easter joy. His interment was in the cemetery of Gilboa, and in sight of his former home. His faithful wife survives him, cheered and comforted by the consciousness of his well-spent life and his eternal reward.

NATHAN TIBBALS died in Brooklyn, N. Y., November 19, 1897. He was born at Milford, Conn., September 20, 1815. He traced his conversion to the godly influence of a local preacher in Lewis County, N. Y., whose name has not been preserved. His educational advantages were confined to the schools of his native town, though he supplemented this by diligent private investigations in literature. He joined the New York Conference in 1841, where he served seven years, until he became a member of the New York East Conference by its separation from the parent body. His sermons were plain, practical, and spiritual. Again and again the sinner was led by him to the foot of the cross. He was an early advocate of total abstinence by vote and pen. His term of effective service was restricted to thirteen years. While at Killingworth, Conn., in 1842, he attempted to cross a swollen stream on horseback. Both horse and rider were swept away by the angry waters, and with the utmost difficulty he was rescued from drowning. His pastoral assignments were as follows: Fairfield, Killingworth and Madison, Westbrook, Cheshire, Newington, supernumerary, Suffield, Orient, Riverhead, Astoria. From 1855 to 1897, owing to bodily infirmities, he was relegated to the rank of superannuation. During his enforced retirement he was by no means idle. In 1855 he was the supply pastor at John Street, N. Y. He took a deep interest in his younger brethren, especially those assigned to weaker charges. Like the majority of our earlier preachers he devoted his remaing years to the dissemination of religious literature, some of which was the product of his own pen. In 1842 he became the husband of Miss Abigail Tibbals, of Milford, Conn. Their child was the authoress, Mrs. Abbie C. Morrow. His first wife died in 1846. In June, 1847, he married Miss Huldah F. Kelsey, of Killingworth, Conn. One son is a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church. During his closing year he realized that the end was drawing rapidly near. His peace with God flowed like a river. After a day of comparative silence his wife asked him what he had been thinking about. His reply was emphatic—"God," he said, "just God." On another occasion, when asked what made him so happy, he replied, exultingly, "Because I have finished my course." In this delightful frame of mind he completed his earthly career.

WILLIAM ALEXANDER DICKSON was born in Gola Scolstown, Ireland, September 15, 1857. He came of that peasant stock that has ever given to the world its best men and women. His parents were farmers, and so he began life near to nature's heart. He was converted April 10, 1874, and joined the Irish Conference in 1881. On February 2, 1888, he married Miss Mary Catherine Coghlan in Schull, County Cork. On the 26th of the same month he sailed from Queenstown and landed in New York March 5, 1888. He won in the Irish Conference the love and admiration of his brethren. He was admitted into the New York East Conference in 1888 and was appointed to the Second Street Church, New York city. His pastoral record is as follows: Second Street, New York; Oyster Bay, Bay Shore, Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn; Jamaica. After a few months of patient sickness God took him to the Church without fault before the throne. No one could be long in his company without feeling the touch of a large soul and a tender heart. Intellectually he was of no mean ability. He had a prodigious capacity for work, a remarkable memory, and an unusual power of applying truth. He wrote not a little on theological and literary subjects for various papers and periodicals. He contributed for six years to our Sunday School Journal and Lesson Helps illustrations, which were highly appreciated. When he died he was bringing toward completion the history of American Methodism from 1844 to the present. His style was clear, concise, suggestive. As a preacher he was simple, clear, direct. We have few among us more persuasive and helpful than he. His ordinary themes were the great fundamentals of the Gospel. As a pastor he approximated more nearly the ideal than most men do. He was a consummate organizer and prolific in devices that would bring things to pass. No man could well give a fuller proof of his ministry than did he. He might have lived longer if he had lived less. But to him life consisted in deeds, thoughts, words, rather than in years. He died as beautifully as he lived.

JOHN WESLEY SIMPSON died February 13, 1898. He was born in Denton, Md., March 21, 1827. When about seventeen he left his native State, lived for a few months in New Jersey, and then came to Jamaica, Long Island, where he engaged in mercantile pursuits. He received an exhorter's license November 21, 1848, and in August, 1849, was placed in charge of Amagansett Mission. In 1851 he was admitted as a probationer in the New York East Conference and was appointed to West Hartland and Hitchcockville. There his wife died, leaving three children under his care. His subsequent appointments were: East Hartland, Windsor, Bristol, Berlin and Kensington, Burlington, Stratford, Southbury and South Britain, West Granby, Windsor Locks, Clinton, Southold, Northport, Astoria, Rockaway and Foster's Meadow, East New York, Flatbush, Babylon, Plainville, East Chester, Smithtown. He married Miss Jane L. Miller, of Hartland, in 1854. His early educational advantages were limited. No college or theological school ever gave him a diploma. To make amends for this lack he obeyed the Pauline injunction, "Give attention to reading; study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." He died on the day he would have chosen—the Christian Sabbath. Preaching in the morning at King's Park, he returned home a sick man, to pass in a few hours to his reward. In 1856-57 he was at Bristol; and during the latter year a great "refreshing from the presence of the Lord" occurred. J. H. Sessions, so well known in our Methodism, and his wife were converted, with many others. In the afternoon of January 1, 1858, he preached in the schoolhouse where the meetings had been held, and about fifty converts were received on probation. On the afternoon of every first of January till his death, with one exception, he preached in the same place, making in all forty sermons. His memory has been from that time forth in Bristol like "ointment poured forth" among all connected with that great work of grace. His happiest moment was when souls were being converted. Then his shout in the camp could be heard from afar. On February 8, five days before his labors ended, he wrote, "I am hard at work here. Five or six weeks' work is on hand; meetings every night." Six children survive to share their mother's sorrow, among them being Miss Fanny Simpson, who is favorably known for her evangelistic labors. His interment occurred at Huntington, in a plot of ground he had purchased the week before his decease.

JOHN ALEXANDER ROCHE, M.D., D.D., was born at Stillpond, Md., August 30, 1813, and died in New York city February 15, 1898. His early education was acquired in Chestertown and Baltimore, Md. Subsequently he prosecuted further studies at the College of Medicine of Philadelphia, and the Union Theological Seminary, New York. He received the degree of M.D. from the former institution, and that of D.D. from Asbury University. He possessed an omnivorous taste for literatnre, and was to the end an ardent student, especially of moral science and of Church polity, with vigorous views on all cognate questions, and remarkably alert on the spur of the moment to express his opinions impressively, thus being a keen debater in Conference or convention. At an early age he gave his heart to God in Smyrna, Del. He was received into the Philadelphia Conference in 1835, and was assigned to the following charges: Snow Hill, Accomac and Northampton, Smyrna and Wilmington, Reading and Norristown, Asbury, St. Paul's, Fifth Street, and St. George's, Philadelphia. Thence he was transferred to the New York East Conference in 1857, and successively stationed at Allen Street, Seventeenth Street, Forsyth Street, Allen Street again, Thirty-seventh Street, Forsyth Street again, New York city; Simpson, First Place, South Second Street, St. Luke's, Parkville, Flatbush, and Washington Street, Brooklyn. From 1874 to 1877 and again in 1893 he was a supernumerary. In 1895 he became superannuated. In 1889 he published the Life of the Rev. John Price Durbin, D.D., and recently the Life of Mrs. Sarah A. Langford Palmer, wherin he exalts the Christian character as exemplified by that elect lady. He has been a frequent contributor to our denominational organs on themes connected with the doctrines, discipline, and usages of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He retained his vigor to an extraordinary degree up to extreme age, and was in constant demand for sermons and addresses on special occasions. These services were rendered with the same scope of thought, copiousness of diction, and attractiveness of manner which characterized his efforts in his prime. He married Miss Elizabeth Upshur Bayley in Virginia in 1837. She lived only a few years. In Germantown, Pa., he married Miss Mary Caroline Osler, in 1843. Three children survive, two of them being the Rev. Spencer S. Roche, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, and the Rev. Olin S. Roche, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, New York. His intellectual equipment, courtly bearing, chivalrous spirit, polemical expertness, rhetorical accomplishment, preaching afflatus, and Christian consistency were qualities he wielded to a remarkable extent. Lord Chesterfield could not have exceeded him in grace of manners, elegance of conversation, or courteous consideration of others. His pastoral ministries and relations were of the most affectionate and helpful type, and his friendships were riveted as with bolts of steel. While his sermons corruscated with intellectual brightness, they were also overwhelming in their emotional force, usually storming all citadels of doubt. During his twoscore consecutive years in the New York East Conference his unique personality were indelibly stamped upon the deliberations of that body. In every forensic contest during those years he took an active part, and his silver-crowned head, like the white plume of Henry of Navarre, was the guidon that marked the decisive point of each battle royal. He was ingenuous and generous to a fault. While on his deathbed his soul was "calm as summer evenings be." His last hours were those of spiritual triumph.

Thomas Ervin Gilbert was born in Sumter, S. C., January 3, 1855, and died in Waterbury, Conn., February 26, 1898, after an illness of two weeks of typhoid pneumonia. He was a lineal descendant of Matthew Gilbert, who came over in the Mayflower. His father was editor of the Sumter Watchman when South Carolina seceded, and afterward a member of the South Carolina Conference of the Church, South. He was converted at the early age of eight. Having graduated from the Wolford Theological Seminary at Spartansburg, S. C., he joined in 1877 the South Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. After seven years of successful work he was received, on his credentials, into the New York East Conference in 1884. Two days previous to that session he married Miss Emily Mix, of New Haven, Conn., who, with two daughters, survives. In the New York East Conferenee his appointments were: West Haven, Easton, supernumerary, to care for the father of Mrs. Gilbert; Saugatuck, St. Paul's, Waterbury. In all of these charges he "showed himself approved unto God, a workman that needed not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." He was a manly man, true to his convictions. He was of intellectual as well as social attractiveness, a careful student and an able expounder of God's word. He was also a judicious administrator and possessed wonderful tact in respect to church finances. A local editor said of his funeral, "It was an ideal Christian funeral, for the man who lay dead in the beautiful casket was known as a man who had been good among good men, one who practiced to the letter the doctrines he professed and taught."

John Bocking Merwin, D.D., was born in Albany, N. Y., May 14, 1812. His father, Samuel Merwin, was one of the most commanding preachers of the old New York Conference, an orator of high rank. In his seventh year, when his father was stationed in Duane Street, New York city, one Sabbath afternoon in the garret of the old parsonage, while reading Little Harry and His Bearer, he gave his heart to God. At fourteen, when his parents resided in Philadelphia, he was sent to Wilbraham Academy, where Dr. Wilbur Fisk was principal, thus bringing him at an early period under a most benign influence. In 1830 he became an inmate of Dr. J. P. Durbin's family at Augusta College, Kentucky, and entered the freshman class. He finished the course in three years, and graduated in 1832. He joined the New York Conference in 1833, and was stationed as junior preacher at White Plains and Greenburg. His successive appointments were as follows: White Plains and Greenburg, Smithtown, Agent of Plattekill Seminary, Newington and Wethersfield, Patchogue, Lenox, Second Street, Troy; Glenham, Cannon Street, Poughkeepsie; Sands Street, Brooklyn; Flushing, Danbury, Westville, Middletown, Bloomfield, supernumerary, Agent of Wesleyan University, Nichol's Farms, Waterbury, Ninth Street, New York; Hempstead, Grand Street, Brooklyn; presiding elder North Long Island District, Presiding Elder New York District, Forsyth Street, New York; Ridgefield, Simpson Church, Brooklyn; Hamden, Gothic Church, Brooklyn; East Norwich, Bellmore and Seaford, Stony Brook, Stepney, superannuated. In 1874 he was made Doctor of Divinity by the Iowa University. In 1856 he was a delegate to the General Conference, and as first reserve in 1872 took his seat on the election of E. G. Andrews to the episcopacy, and became a member of the Missionary Board the same year. He was one of the trustees of the Conference, and for many years president of the board. He was also president of the New York Preachers' Meeting. When he came into the New York Conference most of what was called the "Thundering Legion" of that Conference were still strong. Daniel Ostrander, Billy Hibbard, Samuel Coleman, John B. Matthias, Noah Levings, Cyrus Foss, the three Bangses, Peter P. Sandford, Aaron Hunt, William Jewett, Marvin Richardson, and many others welcomed him. When he was in Augusta College the great Henry B. Bascom was professor there, and the whole atmosphere of young Merwin's life was charged with the fire and romance of Methodism's great days. At Poughkeepsie the ministers of various denominations in their weekly preachers' meeting appointed him as delegate to the first General Evangelical Alliance held in London in 1846. When he was in Poughkeepsie he introduced a change in the order of public service, which met the approval of Bishop Hedding, and was generally adopted. The custom had been to read notices and take the collection after the sermon; he changed them to precede the second singing. When the majority in the New York East Conference was so large for the purification of the Church from slavery he insisted that the minority was misunderstood, and organized the "Ministers' and Laymen's Union," that started the Methodist, and became a leading factor in bringing "lay delegation" to pass. He was emphatically a Methodist preacher. His trumpet gave no uncertain sound. "He believed, and therefore spoke." He was a persistent soul-saver, and many are the seals of his ministry. He would never negotiate for an appointment, for he regarded the Church order as military, but made an exception when the bishop wanted to appoint him presiding elder; for he repeatedly declined the office, and only consented when he was convinced it was clearly his duty. On entering upon his duties on the New York District, in 1871, the city mission work received a care it had not before known. A report of his, setting forth the needs of the mission work, was printed and largely circulated. As a preacher he was always strong on the essentials of doctrine, and often his word was a keen-edged polished sword. His interest in the Church grew with his years. He put down all the contingencies of a Methodist preacher's life as belonging to the contract, and few men have been more loved, or honored, or left a better record for high character. He was sick about three months and a half, expecting to get well and go to the Conference. Four days before his death he became unconscious, and died quietly. His funeral services began in Port Jefferson, L. I., and were continued in St. John's Church, Brooklyn. A large congregation, with delegations from the Missionary Board, and New York Preachers' Meeting, and Brooklyn Preachers' Meeting were present. He was manly without undue conceit, a rigid Methodist without bigotry, a high-toned Christian without fanaticism, a courtly gentleman without softness or effusiveness, reminding one of George William Curtis's description of this quality in Sir Philip Sidney, who "wore his guitar slung with ribbon about his neck, but his sword girt with leather on his thigh." So our knight has hung up his armor in the Lord's high hall and passed to his reward.

Little Rock Conference.

June Lemons was born August 2, 1851, in the State of Tennessee, and died July 5, 1897. He was regarded by his brethren as a true minister of the Gospel, and was loved by the people he served. He was received on probation in the Little Rock Conference in 1889, and traveled until he was called from labor to reward. He leaves behind one daughter, two sons, and many friends.

Edward D. Spencer was born February 12, 1862, in the State of Mississippi. He came to Arkansas in 1880, and joined the Little Rock Conference in 1882. He served the following charges: Argenta, Fulton, Little River County, Argenta again, Johnsville, and Marianna. He studied at Philander Smith College and at Gammon. He was appointed presiding elder in 1896. He was a hard worker and built churches wherever he could. He was stricken down on November 20, 1897, and suffered till December 10, when he was summoned to go home and rest from his labors.

Central Pennsylvania Conference.

Mortimer P. Crosthwaite was born in Center County, Pa., September 16, 1819. His conversion, about which he loved to speak and sing, occurred at a camp meeting near Nittany Mountain, when he was twenty. In 1841 his pastor appointed him class leader, and ten years later he received an exhorter's license. The same year he was elected to the office of register and recorder in Center County, Pa., and served for six years. While here he was trained to become the painstaking statistician and efficient treasurer of the Conference which now mourns its loss. For it was as early as the second year of his ministry that his brethren recognized in him a special fitness for this service, and from that time afterward honored him with a clerical position during the Conference session. While in the civic office referred to he was the leader of two classes at Bellefonte Station, exercised his gifts as an exhorter, and convinced the Church that God designed him for wider usefulness. He was accordingly given a local preacher's license in 1854, supplied Penn Valley Charge in 1858–59, and joined the East Baltimore Conference in 1860. During his active ministry he served the following charges: Warrior's Mark, Orangeville, Catawissa, Berwick, Bloomingdale, Salona, Espy and Light Street, Mifflinburg, Montoursville, Hughesville, Beech Creek and Mill Hall, Mill Hall and East Lock Haven, Salladasburg, and Du Boistown. In 1891 he became supernumerary. During his retirement he preached as often as seventy times in one year. Tenderness was an attribute of his heart and benevolence the habit of his life. Human need and suffering never appealed to him in vain. The temperance cause found in him a true friend. In one place where he was stationed through his efforts every licensed saloon was closed. His joy was complete when sinners flocked to the mercy seat and believers pressed into the higher life. Numbers still living recall scenes when he thrilled the audiences with his singing and his appeals. He was married twice. His first wife was Catherine E. Close, of Center County, Pa., whom he married February 23, 1824, one son being A. C. Crosthwaite, of the Nebraska Conference. Mrs. Crosthwaite died June 17, 1851. On February 23, 1852, he married Rebecca T. Kennelly, of Spring Mills, Pa., who died December 2, 1889. The end of such a man is peace. Happy in the memory of a well-spent life and strong in the Lord, death had no terrors to him. In confidence his soul returned to the God who gave it.

John Wesley Olewine was born in Lewistown, Pa., June 21, 1835, and died in Altoona, Pa., November 11, 1897. His early life was spent in the vicinity of Lewistown and Petersburg, Pa. Reared by godly parents, he was converted at fifteen, and later studied at Williamsport Dickinson Seminary. He entered the East Baltimore Conference in 1861, and became one of the original members of the Central Pennsylvania Conference upon its organization. The appointments he served in the two Conferences were as follows: Philipsburg, New Washington, Penn Valley, Newberry, Half Moon, Selinsgrove, Wrightsville, Watsontown, Emporium, Port Royal, Three Springs, Manor Hill. From 1883 until 1892 he was supernumerary, and from 1892 until 1897 superannuated. On February 9, 1863, at Selin's Grove, Pa., he married Miss Lucy Rhodes, who survives him with two sons. From 1883 to 1888 he resided on a farm in Huntingdon County, and later removed to Altoona, where he passed the remaining nine years, winning the esteem of all. He was as unyielding as granite in defense of the right. In pastoral work he was untiring. As a preacher he was scriptural and forcible. On a Sabbath morning in the early autumn, while preparing to assist in the holy sacrament, he suffered a slight stroke of paralysis, the effects of which soon disappeared. But suddenly, in the evening of October 27, came the stroke which brought final prostration. For two weeks there were periods of perfect clearness of mind, in which unwavering faith was expressed. In the early morning of November 11 the man of God gently sank to the rest of the just.

William E. Hoch was born in Mount Pleasant, Pa., June 13, 1849, and died at Mercersburg, Pa., in the home of his boyhood, July 29, 1897. At eighteen he was happily converted. Entering Dickinson College, he graduated in 1873, having been admitted to the Central Pennsylvania Conference in the spring. His first charge was Saxton, where he was greatly appreciated. In 1875 he was sent to McConnellstown, thence to Shellsburg in 1876–77, and thence to Shirleysburg in 1878–79. Here he was overtaken by severe prostration, resulting from overwork, and in 1880 his name was put on the list of supernumeraries, from which it was doubtless transferred to the "Lamb's book of life." As a student he was scholarly beyond the average, and was always heard with profit. As a preacher he was commanding and convincing. His consecration was entire. He walked in the fellowship of love, so that death, coming suddenly, found him ready. On that day, after dinner, he had retired, as his habit was, to hold communion with God, when he "fell on sleep," and "was not," for the Master had taken him unto himself. On November 10, 1874, he married Miss Margaret J. Jones, of Lewistown, Pa., who with three children survives. On October 18, 1890, he returned to the home of his parents in Mercersburg, and continued under the old rooftree until death came and loving hands laid him in his last resting-place.

George Tarring Gray was a native of Half Moon Valley, Pa. He was born November 12, 1832, and died at Irvona, Pa., February 18, 1898. His parents were active Methodists, the father being for many years a class leader. Under these influences the son at seventeen came into the enjoyment of a Christian experience. He began exhorting within a few months, and soon entered Pine Grove Academy to prepare for the ministry. In 1856 he became a member of the East Baltimore Conference, and afterward of the Central Pennsylvania Conference at its organization, receiving in order the following appointments: Shirleysburg, Cassville, Bedford Circuit, Manor Hill, North Baltimore Circuit, East Baltimore, Mount Vernon, East Harford, Mount Holly, Beaver Meadow, Duncannon, supernumerary, First Church, Carlisle; Fifth Street, Harrisburg; Lewiston, Hazleton, Sunbury, Everett, First Church, Huntingdon; Lewisburg, Curwensville, Mount Carmel, Chestnut Avenue, Altoona; Coalport and Irvona. In September, 1862, he married in Huntingdon, Pa., Miss Mary E. Hagey, who soon died. On December 12, 1865, he married Miss Alice A. Mullen, of Mount Holly, Pa., who, with one son and three daughters, survives. As a pastor he was devoted. As a preacher he was thoughtful, chaste in language, and persuasive in delivery. Unmistakable seals were given to his ministry in frequent outpourings of the Holy Spirit, resulting in many conversions. On January 23, while riding from Coalport to Irvona, he aggravated a cold previously taken. For nearly four weeks he lingered, and then was at rest.

Thompson Mitchell, D.D., was born near Newton Hamilton, Pa., March 22, 1817, and died in Williamsport, Pa., May 9, 1897. His early life was spent upon the farm, and the common schools furnished him a fair education. At twenty he became the subject of God's saving grace, and at once united with the Church. Two years subsequent, in 1839, he was received into the Baltimore Conference, and continued in the active work until 1884. His fields of labor, located in the Baltimore, East Baltimore, and Central Pennsylvania Conferences, were the following: Carlisle Circuit, Shrewsbury, Codorus, Lewistown Circuit, Birmingham, Hollidaysburg, Bellefonte Circuit, Danville, Williamsport, Staunton, Columbia Street, Baltimore; Northumberland District, President of Williamsport Dickinson Seminary, Harrisburg District, Williamsport District, Juniata District, First Church, Altoona; North Williamsport, Duboistown. Four times he represented his brethren in the General Conference, and was reserve delegate in 1864 and 1880. He served as a member of the Book Committee from 1876 to 1880. Taking into the office of presiding elder a sound judgment, an ardent spirit, and fine executive abilities, he administered its affairs with general satisfaction. The services he rendered Williamsport Dickinson Seminary put that institution "upon a sound basis for the first time . . . and laid broad and deep the foundations for the present enviable reputation of the school." As a practical preacher, a skillful financier, and an earnest Christian, he exerted a commanding influence. Nature generously endowed him with a splendid physique. His mind was strong in its logical turn and its power to grasp a subject in all its details. He was a man of settled convictions and determined purposes, to which must be added a kind and sympathetic heart. He was singularly devoid of pretense. In 1842 he married Temperance Turner, who, with five children, now mourns their loss. His death occurred on Sabbath morning. Conscious that the celestial rest day had dawned upon him, he exclaimed, "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name," and passed to his reward.

New England Conference.

William Rice, D.D., was born in Springfield, Mass., March 10, 1821, and died August 17, 1897. He was of sturdy Puritan stock, tracing his descent back to earliest settlers in Sudbury and Springfield. His father, William Rice, was for many years the leading member of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Springfield, and one of the founders of Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham. He was early converted. He was slight of form and never robust physically, though having great endurance. Entering Wesleyan Academy when very young, he graduated with highest honors. He was a recognized leader among the students, manifesting the independence of thought characteristic of his later life. In 1841 he joined the New England Conference, and was stationed in North Malden (now Melrose). He was then appointed successively to Saugus, Marblehead, North Russell Street, Boston; South Street, Lynn; Chelsea, Chicopee, Bromfield Street, Boston; Park Street, Chelsea. In 1857, on account of failing health, he became supernumerary, and so continued to the end, except for two years' service at East Long Meadow and ten years as chaplain of the county House of Correction. In 1861 he became city librarian of Springfield, and held that office till his death. Mainly through his management he left it one of the finest public libraries in the State. He also served for twenty years on the school board of the city, and on the State Board of Education. He was for many years a trustee of Wesleyan Academy, serving as secretary and president nearly forty years. Since 1875 he had been a trustee of Wesleyan University. He was twice a member of the General Conferenee. He served on the committee appointed by the General Conference to revise the Methodist hymn book, and as chairman of the subcommittee gave shape to our present Hymnal. His other literary works were a Pastor's Manual and Moral and Religious Quotations from the Poets. On September 13, 1843, he married Miss Caroline Laura North, of Lowell. Their four children were all graduates of Wesleyan University, and three still live in the service of the Church. He was blessed with a remarkably active mind and large powers of application. Without the training of the schools he was a diligent student, had a wide acquaintance with books, and was fearless in the search for truth and in following his convictions. The Bible was to him the book of God, and so sure was he of its strength that he never feared lest, like a fragile vase, it should be shattered by handling or use. He never lost his skill in pastoral work. In his prison chaplaincy he ministered to the weak and vicious in a spirit of love and righteousness. In his wise fellowship with ministers about him he was often a pastor of pastors. As a preacher he was attractive and instructive. His ministry was attended with frequent and sweeping revivals. His readiness of language, clearness of thought, and parliamentary skill made him a power in legislation. When his frail body was broken by disease and death approached with perfect trust he turned calmly toward the mysterious exit from time and went to meet the Father.

David Sherman, D.D., was born in New Lebanon, N. Y., June 17, 1822, and died in Brookline, Mass., August 14, 1897. In 1843 he graduated from the Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, and entered at once the New England Conference. For forty-nine years he served the Church as pastor or presiding elder, and until the last days of his life rendered effective service with his remarkable pen. Three times he represented his brethren in the General Conference. He was an unusually well-equipped man. He knew something of everything. He had acquired the habit of making notes of his wide reading until he had disciplined his mind to retain to an unusual extent the results of his researches. He was a charming talker upon any theme. He was a gifted debater. As a radical he believed in almost all the progressive movements of his time. He was confident that Christ was in his Church and that no error could successfully assail it. His last days were full of cheerfulness. His chief works were histories of the Discipline and of Wilbraham. His correspondence for the religious press was unprecedented in amount and quality. His name will long be held in honor in the Church. One of his sons is C. R. Sherman, a member of the New England Conference.

William Sands Jagger was born in Lynn, Mass., June 27, 1842, and died in Graniteville, November 17, 1897. When he was about two years old his family moved to Southampton, N. Y., where his youth was passed in the usual employment and with the limited advantages of a farmer's boy. At eighteen he volunteered in the Union Army, and served for three years. When discharged he went immediately to Wilbraham, where he spent four years in faithful study. He was converted when about twelve, and in army and school life maintained his Christian integrity. In 1871 he was received on probation in the New England Conference and stationed at South Athol. His following appointments were: South Hadley Falls, West Parish, Westfield, Shelburne Falls, Palmer, Shrewsbury, Upton, Saxonville, Conway, Franklin, and Graniteville. On September 26, 1876, he was married to Mrs. D. W. Mitchell, who survives. It fell to his lot to occupy in the main small and laborious fields, in which he received meager support, and often carried heavy burdens. But in whatever condition he had grace to be content. He was faithful in every department of service, commanding the confidence of his people and setting an example worthy of imitation. He was a diligent student of the word. His sermons were prepared with devoted care, and in thought, arrangement, and language would have graced almost any pulpit. In his home he was a model of Christian manhood. His death came suddenly in the midst of a congregation he had just addressed on temperance. He closed by saying that when his time came he would like to meet death in the midst of such a company and such work as then occupied him. There was no time for other dying testimony—there was need of none. His life in all its breadth and fullness was testimony to the Gospel and the power of God's grace.

William Nast Brodbeck was born in Marietta, O., June 25, 1847. His father, Paul Brodbeck, a native of the grand duchy of Baden, was an honored minister in our German work. He was named after William Nast, the father of German Methodism. His conversion was brought about at sixteen. Some years later he was reclaimed from a backslidden state, and on March 12, 1872, was licensed as an exhorter. He entered the Cincinnati Conference in September, 1872, and two months later married Miss Sue Carrington, who survives him with four children. His appointments in the Cincinnati Conference were Tippecanoe City, Cumminsville, Avondale, Trinity, Xenia; St. Paul, Springfield; First Church, Urbana; and Walnut Hills. In his first charge he not only conducted a revival, but gave inspiring leadership to the local Woman's Temperance Crusade. At Springfield he had remarkable success in revival work, and under his pastorate a splendid church was built. His greatest revival was at Urbana. In thirteen weeks three hundred and twenty-eight professed conversion and two hundred and fifty-four united with the Church. At Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, his former successes were fully equaled. In 1886 he was transferred to the New England Conference and stationed at Tremont Street, Boston, where in five years he received more than six hundred on probation. At Brookline he remained three years, during which time ninety thousand dollars had been raised for a new church edifice, and the building began, while there had also been two gracious revivals. His last pastorate was at Trinity Church, Charlestown, where he died, after nearly four years of successful service, lamented by all the Methodism of Boston. He was long secretary of the board of trustees of Boston University, and was the president from its beginning of the New England Deaconess Home, Training School, and Hospital. To gifts as a preacher he added the power of a captivating personality and a consecrated life. In 1892 he was a delegate to the General Conference, and again in 1896. In the Conference of 1896 he was chairman of the Committee on Missions, and received about one hundred votes for the office of Missionary Secretary. From a sense of duty he declined, while at Brookline, the position of General Secretary of the Epworth League. The Head of the Church took him unexpectedly to higher and holier service. To his Master he was a faithful servant; to Methodism a pillar of strength; to his family their life and joy; to his friends one of the rarest jewels that adorn our human fellowship.

Newark Conference.

John I. Morrow was born in Paterson, N. J., February 5, 1823. He studied at the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary and afterward at Wesleyan University. When about eighteen he was converted in Cross Street Church, Paterson. Joining the Newark Conference, his fields of labor were: Moorestown, Hope, Bound Brook, Bloomfield, Newark City Mission, Bethel, Staten Island; Madison, Woodrow, Staten Island; Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island; First Church, Rahway; Emory, Jersey City; Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island, again; Port Jervis, Belvidere, Newton, First Church, Dover; Asbury, Hackensack; Davis Memorial, Newark; Dashiell Memorial, Newark; Assistant Secretary of the American Sabbath Union. For many years he was Engrossing Secretary of the Newark Conference. He married in 1848 Miss Caroline B. Gillmor, of Springfield, N. J., who, with an only daughter, survives. His was a life of singular beauty, fidelity, and usefulness. His sermons were full of rich, spiritual thought. As a pastor he was preeminent. He was eminently useful also as a builder of churches and in his care over financial interests. The later years of his life were specially devoted to the Mutual Life Insurance Association of the Newark Conference. He was blessed with a revival in all his charges save one, and hundreds hailed him as their spiritual father. He was a man of striking personality, and his tall form and gentle face could not fail to impress those who looked upon him. Wherever he went something about him indicated a man of singular sweetness of spirit and nobility of character. He wanted to die in June, the month of flowers, and it was on June 19, 1897, that he departed. As his end drew near, when visited by his pastor, he said, in Christian triumph, "I am prepared. Safe, safe, saved," and passed to the land of light.

JOHN CRAWFORD was born in Newark, Del., February 11, 1850. He graduated from Princeton in 1872, and from Drew Theological Seminary in 1875. He was admitted to the Newark Conference in 1876, and remained in this Conference with an interval of one year, when he served St. James Church, New Brunswick. On September 23, 1884, he married Miss Anna Priest, the daughter of an honored Presbyterian clergyman. In 1894 he was appointed to Trinity Church, Paterson, where with fidelity he labored until compelled by failing health to retire from active work in October, 1896. He knew perfectly what this retirement meant, and met it with these words, "I am not afraid to die, but the message of the Gospel never seemed so sweet to me as it does to-day." The close of his life came suddenly on July 7, 1897. He was a preacher of more than usual power. The faith he preached had woven its power about him, and all his angularities were softened by its touch. For years he had been fighting a losing battle in his physical nature. To the end he preached with a strength which seemed an inspiration from above. Love divine amid the joys of the redeemed has welcomed another triumphant soul.

JOHN A. MUNROE was born in Annapolis, Md., June 15, 1835, and died October 30, 1897. His father was an honored member of the Baltimore Conference from 1825 till 1869. He graduated from Dickinson Seminary in 1851, and from Dickinson College in 1855. Soon after he became a teacher in Pennington Seminary—a work for which he was eminently fitted. This activity embraced eighteen years of his life—five as professor in Pennington Seminary and Baltimore Female College, three as principal of the Female Collegiate Institute at Annapolis, Md., five as principal of the Female Collegiate Institute at Westminster, Md., and five as principal of the Passaic Collegiate Institute. He married Miss Frances R. Howe, daughter of Dr. John M. Howe, of Passaic, N. J. She left him for the better country about eighteen months before his death. Early as a teacher he was called to the ministry, and gladly gave his life to this work. During the eighteen years spent in teaching he preached frequently in neighboring churches. In 1873 he took charge of the Clinton Street Church, in Newark. His subsequent appointments were: Port Jervis, Market Street, Paterson; Lafayette, Jersey City; Hackettstown, and Bloomfield. During his second term at Market Street Church, Paterson, he was smitten with paralysis, which for the time disabled him from work, though he retained a nominal relation till 1893, the end of the pastoral term. After two years of rest his health was restored, and he became assistant pastor at Meriden, Conn., where he continued two years. He then retired from active service, and in Ocean Grove spent the twilight of his life. He possessed in an unusual degree the rare combination of strength and beauty. The strong will, the stern purpose, were found alongside of a tender heart. As a preacher he was peculiar to himself. No one could anticipate his sermons. They were original, prepared with great care, beautiful in language, yet vigorous in purpose. At times he would seem to bring the heavens down, overwhelming his audience with an unction almost superhuman. As a pastor he excelled. He had the golden key that unlocks the hearts of men. His unfailing cheerfulness was one of the chief characteristics of his nature; he always saw the sunny side of life. In one pastorate more than a thousand penitents came to the cross, and in every church he had many seals to his ministry. His final illness was brief—less than three days. His last words were a beautiful and tender blessing he asked over the noon-time meal, where he was stricken with the fatal attack.

WILLIAM JOSEPH KEATLEY was born near Ithaca, N. Y., where his father, William Keatley, was a Methodist circuit rider. At nineteen, while he was attending the Wyoming camp meeting, he received the witness of the Spirit to his sonship. For three years he attended Wyoming Seminary, where he graduated with honor. Here he met Miss Cora Post, who afterward became his wife. After graduation he was for nearly four years the principal of the Forty Fort High School, and then spent three years at Drew Seminary. While still in the seminary he took work under the presiding elder at Port Morris, N. J. Joining the Newark Conference on probation in 1891, he was appointed to Cedar Cliff, in the outskirts of Paterson. Here he labored with zeal, built a fine parsonage, and left a thoroughly organized church. His next charge was Franklin Church, Nutley, N. J., where for two years he was abundant in labor. In 1896 he became pastor of the Watsessing Church, Bloomfield, and for a year and a half labored to universal satisfaction. The last Sunday in September, 1897, he fell fainting into friendly arms while endeavoring to preach on "The Blessing of Tribulations." Compelled to desist from active work, he went to visit in Pennsylvania. Here he seemingly improved, and preached with power. A few days of extreme weakness followed with seemingly gradual improvement, but on Thursday, November 4, he passed into the great beyond. His pulpit utterances were weighty with thorough preparation, rich with cullings from wide reading, and penetrating with the winged force of an impassioned delivery. As a man he invariably won the esteem of the community in which he labored. The souls he helped will bless his memory.

SOLOMON PARSONS was born in Millbrook, N. J., August 10, 1832. His father was a farmer, and he spent his early years among the granite hills of northern New Jersey. When about seventeen years old, while visiting an aunt in Paterson, he went to a meeting in the Cross Street Church and was converted. Attending a select school in Morristown, he soon became competent to teach, and did so in Succasunna and Mendham. In 1854 he spent his last year at Pennington Seminary as teacher of mathematics and student of the freshman studies of Wesleyan University, which college he entered as a sophomore in 1855. He excelled in mathematics and philosophy, and was an original thinker. He also cultivated, amid the geologic treasures of the Connecticut Valley, his taste for geology, and in after years became an authority in important branches of mineralogy and paleontology. During his last few years he had collected valuable cabinets of minerals and fossils, and had contributed fine specimens of both to the Museum at Albany and at Central Park, New York. He graduated with honor in 1858, and entered the Newark Conference the same year, his appointments having been as follows: Chatham, Basking Ridge, Perth Amboy, Spring Valley, Somerville, First Church, Phillipsburg; Nyack, Madison, New Prospect, Bound Brook, Trinity, Staten Island; Elizabeth Avenue, Newark; St. Paul's, Staten Island; Summit, Belvidere, Prospect Street, Paterson. In 1892 he became Conference Temperance Agent, remaining in this office until his death in Paterson, November 21, 1897. During all his ministry he took a deep interest in the temperance reform. For many years he worked on the lines of moral suasion and the enforcement of the license laws. In 1878 or 1879 he became a Third Party Prohibitionist, and in that faith he lived and fought till he died. He was nominated for governor of New Jersey on the Prohibition ticket in 1883. His letter of acceptance was pronounced one of the strongest and most statesmanlike documents ever presented on any similar occasion. At the recurring anniversary of the birth of his five sons he would take each apart alone with himself and, breaking a whisky bottle, would have him with uplifted hand solemnly swear eternal hatred to the liquor traffic. As a preacher he stood among the eminent ones of his Conference. He was elected in 1880 and in 1884 to the General Conference. One who was with him more intimately than any of his brethren writes: "His communion with God was constant. Often, as I have walked by his side, have I heard him saying, 'A charge to keep I have; a God to glorify.' Then again in the midst of conversation he would stop and exclaim, 'Bless the Lord, O my soul!' Then again, 'The Lord is my shepherd.'" Such was his communion with his Master while on earth. Who can doubt that on his entrance into the presence of the King he has heard him say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant?"

JOHN ATKINSON, D.D., was born in Deerfield, N. J., December 6, 1835, and died in Haverstraw, N. Y., December 8, 1897. He was converted when fifteen years old at Elmer, N. J., and entered the academy at Bridgeton, N. J. At sixteen and a half years of age he yielded to the urgent request of the presiding elder and was sent to Allowaystown Circuit as junior preacher. In 1853 he joined the New Jersey Conference, and was appointed junior preacher on Freehold Circuit. At this place there was a remarkable revival, over one hundred being converted. His next appointment was Succasunna Plains, in 1855. On July 18, 1856, he married Miss Kate L. Hanlon, who survives. His appointments were as follows: Allowaystown, Freehold, Succasunna Plains, West Stanhope, West Bloomfield, Plainfield, Cross Street, Paterson; Franklin Street, Newark; Union Street, Newark; Emory, Jersey City; Trinity, Jersey City; Grace, Chicago; Washington Street, Bay City, Mich.; Adrian, Mich.; Trinity, Jersey City, again; Halsey Street, Newark; West Side Avenue, Jersey City; and Haverstraw, N. Y. By incessant work he compassed a broad course of study. When at Cross Street, Paterson, he entered the Medical Department of the University of the City of New York and completed his course while at Franklin Street, Newark. His ministry was remarkably useful in winning souls to Christ. There were revivals at Paterson and Franklin Street, Newark, under his ministry, and in most of the other churches he served. He was permitted to witness the conversion of about one thousand five hundred souls. As a preacher he was logical and convincing. His style was oratorical both in form and expression. He was deeply evangelical, treasuring the heart thoughts of the Gospel, the atonement in Christ, and the salvation provided through him. The names of the fathers of Methodism were as familiar to him as household words. He wrote The Living Way before he was twenty-one. He wrote the History of Methodism in New Jersey at Bloomfield, The Garden of Sorrows at Union Street, Newark, and The Class Leader at Trinity, Jersey City. While stationed the second time at Trinity he wrote the Centennial of Methodism. His latest work, The Wesleyan Movement in America, is of great original research, throwing light on the early history of Methodism which will be of great value to future historians. There were no manuscripts too old or too insignificant for him to investigate. To the public, however, he will longest be known by the hymn, "We shall meet beyond the river." For some time he was in poor health. On Friday, December 3, 1897, he was seized with a severe attack of coughing, thought he was dying, and said, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." He then began to fail rapidly, became unconscious, and passed to the mansion prepared for him on December 8. Since his death a beloved son, Thomas Hanlon Atkinson, M.D., has also passed away. His wife, a daughter, and two sons remain to mourn their great loss.

ISAAC NEWTON VANSANT was born in Port Republic, N. J., May 31, 1830. His father lived to be over ninety, and was for more than forty-eight years a local preacher. Of his family four brothers entered the itinerant ministry and two the local. Two became members of the New Jersey Conference and two of the Newark, the one remaining in the Newark being Nicholas Vansant. In 1841 he removed with his parents to Lower Bank, N. J. Here he learned the shipwright trade, which he followed for some years. When about twenty-one he was converted in a revival at Lower Bank. On September 21, 1847, he married Margaret B. Adams of the same place, with whom he lived in happy wedlock a little more than fifty years. He became the assistant in 1854 on Tuckertown Circuit, though still pursuing his trade. He also supplied Bass River, Lower Bank, and Green Bank Charges, until in 1857 he gave up his business and accepted an appointment to Columbia and Hainesburg. Here he served for two years. In April, 1859, he was admitted on trial in the Newark Conference, and filled the following charges: Hope, Stillwater, Wantage, Tranquility, Perth Amboy, Bethel, Staten Island; Clinton and Lebanon, Clinton and Pine Brook, Davis Memorial, Newark; Readington and Allerton, Frenchtown, St. Mark's, Staten Island; Stony Point, Quakertown, Bloomsbury, Rockland Lake. Revivals followed wherever he went. The most notable were at Tranquility and Perth Amboy. These were spiritual upheavals, far-reaching in their results. At Stony Point a new church was erected under his supervision. He was a genial spirit, with a nature bubbling over with good humor. He was a good preacher and singer. Studious in his habits, he produced new sermons to the last, and was one of the few preachers who never cross the dead line until transferred to another world. During the fall of 1897 his health gradually failed. On Christmas morning he asked his wife to read the second chapter of Matthew, which he had been in the habit of reading every Christmas morning for many years. On December 27 he was taken worse and rapidly sank till the end came, about five o'clock of the same day. Lying upon the bed he seemed to be communing with God as he repeated the words "I am thine, O Lord;" "Rock of ages;" "Blessed be the name of the Lord." He leaves a widow, three daughters, and six sons. One son, C. Frank Vansant, is now a member of Troy Conference.

MICAH JOHN CRAMER, D.D., was born near Schaffhausen, Switzerland, February 6, 1835, and died in Carlisle, Pa., January 23, 1898. His ancestors, who belonged to the Swedish nobility, embraced the doctrines of the Reformation at the beginning of the new era. For this cause the family estate was confiscated. The family then renounced the ancestral title and sought a refuge in Switzerland. When Micah was only five years of age his mother died. Subsequently his father decided to try his fortunes in the New World. After a short residence in Pittsburg the family removed to Cincinnati. Here young Cramer entered the German department of the Methodist Book Concern and learned the printer's trade. While at work he was constantly studying with the purpose of entering college, and fitted himself for entering the Ohio Wesleyan University, Edward Thomson being then president. He worked his way through college, and graduated with high honors in the class of 1859. In 1860 he joined the Cincinnati Conference on trial. He married Miss Mary F. Grant, sister to the general, on October 27, 1863. He was at that time pastor of Pearl Street Church, Cincinnati. In February, 1864, he was sent to occupy English and German Methodist churches in Nashville which had been abandoned after the fall of Vicksburg. Here he preached both in English and in German. Subsequently he was in the service of the government as post chaplain at Newport Barracks. In May, 1867, he was appointed by President Johnson consul at Leipsic. He continued at this post for four years, serving as consul on week days and preaching to the resident Americans on Sundays. In 1871 he was appointed minister to the court of Denmark, which position he filled with entire satisfaction. In the rigors of the climate of Denmark his distressing neuralgic difficulty was developed. The University of Copenhagen desired to give him the degree of Ph.D., but he was not at liberty to accept such recognition while he was the accredited minister of our government. During his residence in Copenhagen Syracuse University conferred upon him the degree of D.D., and the Ohio Wesleyan University that of LL.D. When President Garfield came into office in 1881 he was transferred at his own request to Switzerland. His office here was resident minister and consul general, with headquarters at Berne. He served with marked acceptability for four years, resigning in 1885. He then returned to this country, arriving at New York July 24, 1885, the day after the death of General Grant. He served for one year as professor in the School of Theology at Boston. The climate compelled him to resign his professorship. Subsequently he served a year in Drew Seminary in place of Dr. Crooks, who was absent in search of health. At his death he was rendering similar services in the chair of philosophy at Dickinson College. He had close friendships in Europe with such scholars as Christlieb, Delitzsch, Tischendorf, Luthardt, and Harnack. He was a member of many guilds of scholars—as the Victoria Institute, the Society of Biblical Exegesis, and the American Institute of Philosophy. He spoke German with as much ease as English, and his knowledge of French and Danish, Latin, Greek, and Hebrew was adequate. His only book is entitled Conversations and Unpublished Letters of Ulysses S Grant. For several years he was assistant editor of a German magazine at Cleveland, covering the field of theology, and entitled Zeitschrift fur Theologie und Kirche. His son, Dr. Jesse Grant Cramer, is now assistant professor of modern languages in Lehigh University. He has now received the end of his faith, even the salvation of his soul.

Joseph Hughes Knowles, D.D., was born April 19, 1831, six miles from Trenton, N. J. His ancestors on his father's side were from England, on his mother's from Ireland. His conversion took place when he was a student at Pennington Seminary. After due preparation he went to the Concord Biblical Institute, where he remained two years. He then went to Wesleyan University, from which institution he graduated in 1854. In his sophomore year he was chosen by Dr. D. P. Kidder, editor of our Sunday school publications, as an assistant, and conducted the affairs of the office, including the editorship of the Sunday School Advocate, in a manner very satisfactory, therein laying the foundations for the literary work which marked his entire life. After his graduation Bishop Janes assigned him to the Cross Roads Church as his first charge, and there ordained him. Here he was blessed with a gracious revival. In one of his services there came upon the church a wonderful visitation of the Holy Spirit, and he was thus consecrated to God in a dedication which remained during his entire service to the Church. He married on December 25, 1856, Miss Ellin J. Toy, of Palmyra, N. J., who, with their two children, survives. His pastorates were: Cross Roads, Broadway, Camden, Hoboken; Lima, Batavia, and Grace Church, Buffalo, in the Genesee Conference; Middletown, in the New York East Conference; Atlanta, in the Georgia Conference; Halsey Street, Newark; St. Paul's, Newark; First Church, Orange; Centenary, Newark; and Madison, in the Newark Conference. He also served as presiding elder during one term. Further, he was associate principal of the Newark Wesleyan Institute, vice president of the Pittsburg Female College, and professor in Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, Lima, N. Y. During the civil war he was in the service of the Christian Commission. In 1886 he became secretary of the American Sabbath Union and labored actively until 1897, when he was made honorary secretary. He conducted The Pearl of Days in the interests of the American Sabbath Union, and the "Religious World" department of the New York Mail and Express. From July, 1880, to the close of his life he had editorial charge of the page of the New York Christian Advocate known as "The Religious Life," and later as "The Christian Life." Every week his pen supplied at least one original article for this department, and his literary taste guided the selection of the other matter therein. In the interests of the American Sabbath Union he visited the great ecclesiastical bodies of all Christian denominations, and was received by all with affection and heard with satisfaction. He was three times pastor of churches connected with institutions of learning, namely, Genesee College, Wesleyan University, and Drew Theological Seminary. In all of them he exercised a beautiful molding influence on the students. When pastor at Madison he presented each member of the senior class a copy of Arthur's Tongue of Fire. His religious experience was exceedingly beautiful. He was noted for his sweetness of spirit, and had a gentleness akin to the meekness whose possessor shall inherit the earth. He was always buoyant with hope and strong in faith. His very presence was an incentive to holier living. His last eighteen months were a period of great weakness of body, but his thoughts were always of future service and increased usefulness. He left Clifton Springs and came to New York to arrange for the publication of a book. While so engaged there came a sudden call on February 19, 1898, to leave the weakness of the flesh for the untrammeled activities of the heavenly state.

Charles S. Coit was born in the city of New York April 14, 1822. On March 4, 1843, salvation came to him in overflowing joyfulness. He had an old-fashioned conversion. His emotion sent him fairly flying to his home with songs of joy, and shouting, "I have found the Lord." From that hour he was a singing evangel. His voice, like wine, seemed to improve with age. While yet a probationer he was appointed a class leader. He studied in Pennington Seminary, from whence he was summoned into the active work of the itineracy. In 1846 he was appointed to Sandiston Circuit, along the Delaware River, in Sussex County. He was received on probation in the Conference in 1847. The following were his appointments: New Prospect, Rockland Lake, Port Jervis, Hackensack and Arcola, Pitman, New Brunswick, Hoboken, Madison, Bethel, Staten Island; Trinity, Newark; New Providence, Fulton Street, Elizabeth; presiding elder of Newton District, Dover, Grace, Paterson; Lafayette, Jersey City; Centenary, Newark; presiding elder of Paterson District, Newton, De Groot, Newark; corresponding secretary of the Preachers' Aid Society. In 1893 he was made a supernumerary. He was peculiarly successful as an administrator. He was a man of affairs, with a quick discernment, a rare practical sagacity, a strong will, and a genius for organization. He served as trustee of Mount Tabor Camp Meeting Association, Hackettstown Institute, and Drew Theological Seminary. For more than twenty years he was a member of the General Missionary Board of the Church. In 1884 he was reserve delegate to the General Conference. In 1852 he married Miss R. Melinda Harrison, who forty years later was, almost without warning, taken from him. One of their children is Olin B. Coit, D.D., of the Northern New York Conference. He was a preacher of marked excellence, always biblical and evangelical, occasionally impassioned, and frequently adorning his sermons with quaint and original illustrations. He was genuinely religious, after the Wesleyan type, verifying in his own experience the promises of the Gospel which he preached. He toiled with no thought of personal emolument. He seemed to be completely lost to all personal concern in the cause he had under consideration. Twice, when his brethren wished to make him their representative in the legislative body of the Church, he withdrew in favor of others. If service is the measure of greatness, he was great in the kingdom of heaven. When he returned from the burial of his wife he said, "The sun has set in my life." But the glow of a cheerful twilight continued for six years, when suddenly, in the early morning of Sunday, March 6, he was in the brightness of eternal day. Those were years of restful toil and meditation in which, without relaxing his interest in this world, he held himself in readiness for a moment's call. He was apparently in his usual health on Saturday night, but manifested an unusual tenderness at family worship. Late in the evening he was attacked by angina pectoris. Though suffering intense pain, he retained his usual clearness of mind, sent messages to absent ones, and calmly awaited the fatal hour.

Baltimore Conference.

James McKendree Reiley, D.D., was born at Broad Top Mountain, Pa., March 8, 1817, and died in Baltimore, Md., June 2, 1897. His grandparents were early Methodists in his native State, and his honored father, James Reiley, was a member of the Baltimore Conference for thirty-four years. Although the associations of a Christian home were thrown around him, he allowed the seductive influences of the world to lead him away from God, yet never so far that the influences of parental piety were forgotten. Educational advantages at this early period were limited, but such was his desire to acquire knowledge that at eighteen he was competent to teach. From 1835 to 1844 he was at the head of different schools, one of them being the Oakland Academy, Carroll County, Md. In 1839 he opened a private school in Charlestown, Va., and on August 21 of the same year married Miss Susan A. M. B. Gibbs, whose influence soon led him to Christ. He at once identified himself with the Church, and before his probation expired his own convictions and those of the Church respecting him pointed to the ministry as his life work. In September, 1840, he was licensed as a local preacher. On September 28, 1841, his father, who was in charge of St. Mary's Circuit, died, and he filled out the vacancy for the year. Returning to Virginia in 1842, he resumed teaching, preaching each Sabbath in the adjacent county, besides giving attention to the spiritual needs of the colored people in Charlestown. At the Baltimore Conference of 1844 he was received on trial. His successive appointments were: Hillsboro Circuit, Va.; Lewisburg Circuit, Va.; Augusta Circuit, Va.; Front Royal Circuit, Va.; North Baltimore Station; Baltimore City Station; Annapolis, Md. In 1854 his wife died; in April, 1856, he married Miss M. Alcesta Stevenson, of Baltimore. In 1857 he was transferred to the Pittsburg Conference and stationed at Christ Church, Pittsburg. While here Allegheny College honored him with the degree of Doctor of Divinity. In 1859 he was transferred to the East Baltimore Conference and stationed at Frederick City. To this charge he was reappointed in 1860, and in 1861 was stationed at Exeter Street, Baltimore. In 1862 he was appointed presiding elder of the East Baltimore District. The four years that followed were of intense excitement. In those dark days he stood as the uncompromising champion of the Union. In 1864 he led his delegation to the General Conference. At the close of his term on the district he was appointed to Danville, Pa. He remained here until 1868, when he was transferred to the Kentucky Conference and stationed at Union Church, Covington; in 1870 he was assigned to Louisville, Ky. At the close of his pastorate there he was retransferred to the East Baltimore Conference in 1872, and was appointed to Pine Street Church, Williamsport, Pa. In 1874 he was transferred to the West Virginia Conference and appointed to Fourth Street Church, Wheeling, W. Va. In March, 1877, he was transferred to the Baltimore Conference and appointed to Eutaw Street. After two years of service here he was assigned to Georgetown, D. C., where he remained for three years. In 1882–84 he served Madison Square, Baltimore. In 1885 he was appointed presiding elder of the Washington District, and for the full term met his responsibilities in a faithful manner. From 1891 to 1895 he served Harlem Park, Baltimore. At the Conference of 1896, with over a half century of effective service behind him, he asked for the superannuate relation. After Conference he was appointed ■ supply on Summerfield Charge, where he continued until called home. The end came on June 2, 1897. Such expressions as these fell from his lips: "I want to depart and be with Christ;" "I am just waiting to be called over the line;" "I leave all the crosses below;" "It is a free and a full salvation;" "I will shout, and shout, and shout." His style had, especially in his earlier ministry, a marked dramatic cast. He was largely endowed with the imaginative faculty, but also possessed logical force. In all his preaching his supreme thought was to present Jesus Christ as the only hope of a ruined world. Few excelled him as a pastor. The one element of his character that shone with brightness and power was his unpretentious goodness. His body was laid away in beautiful Greenmount Cemetery in hope of the resurrection.

Richard Norris was born in Richmond, Va., March 26, 1835, and died in Baltimore April 13, 1897. His life to his tenth year was spent in his native city, when his parents removed to Lancaster County, Va. Here he availed himself of such educational advantages as were accessible. On the White Marsh Camp Ground, at thirteen, he gave his heart to God. The day after his conversion he united with the Church. While reading the memoir of Carvosso he resolved that if the way opened, he would prepare to preach. A collegiate education seeming, however, impossible, he learned in Baltimore the trade of a carpenter. Several years after this he passed through a severe illness, during which the call to preach returned. His employer, perceiving his determination, arranged for him to have the most of his time for study. On March 29, 1854, he received a license to exhort. On February 7, 1855, he was licensed to preach, and was received on trial in the Baltimore Conference the March following. His first appointment was Berkeley Circuit. So great was his thirst for knowledge that he began, about this time, the study of Greek and Latin without a teacher. God greatly blessed his work on his first circuit, and hundreds were converted. His record is as follows: Berkeley, New Bloomfield, Carlisle Circuit, Caroline Street, Baltimore; Emory, Baltimore; Waynesboro, Havre de Grace, Jefferson Street, Baltimore; North Baltimore, Jackson Square, Baltimore; Waugh, Washington; Georgetown, Madison Square, Baltimore; Ryland, Washington; Wesley Chapel, Washington; Center Street, Cumberland; Hartford Avenue, Baltimore. He was inherently a Christian gentleman. He did nothing "through strife or vainglory," but in "lowliness of mind" esteemed others better than himself. As a friend he was as true as the needle to the pole. As a preacher he was sound and scriptural. Christ was ever the burden of his theme. As an exhorter he was almost without a peer. With ■ ringing voice and a burning love for souls, he sent a shaft of truth home to the consciences of men. Many are the trophies he won for the Master. About a year before his death he confronted the greatest trial of his life in illness. But he wrote, "My hope for future glory is exceedingly bright. Bless his holy name!" His passage from labor to reward was sudden. He leaves a widow, whom he married in 1861, and several children. He has bequeathed to them the legacy of a good name, more precious than gold.

Levin Dorman Herron was born in Salisbury, Md., October 20, 1824. He was converted in his seventeenth year, and almost immediately united with the Church. He was educated in the best schools of his day. For a time he studied medicine, intending to enter that profession. He joined the Baltimore Conference in 1853. In 1859 he married Miss Sally P. Belt, of Clarksburg, Md., who died in 1875, two children surviving. He prayed much in secret, fasted frequently, studied the word diligently, and ever had a sense of the saving presence of his Lord. He often spoke of the joy he possessed in the great salvation. His was a rich experience, and the element of uncertainty never entered into it. He was a man of profound convictions. He thought and chose for himself. He had a high sense of honor and integrity; he was above all meanness. He never magnified his virtues and was not self-seeking. One who was familiar with his life said, "He was the most unworldly man I ever knew." At times he preached with wonderful effect. He served the Church in some of her hardest fields of labor. With singular devotion, and at times without compensation, he toiled for Christ. He was inspired in his work by an intense passion for humanity. His appointments were as follows: Hereford, Patapsco, Montgomery, West Falls, Emmittsburg, Hancock, Middletown, Westernport, Long Green, Darlington, supernumerary, Pendleton, supernumerary. Though he held a supernumerary relation so long, he was not inactive in the work of the Lord. In distributing Sunday school literature, tracts, and Bibles, and in preaching, he did what he could to make the world better. It is thought by some that his best work was wrought in the community with which he was identified at his death. Here, as superintendent of the Bladensburg Mission of Washington, D. C., he rendered invaluable service. Though more than seventy, he taught a free private school, visited the people in their homes, supplied them with food and raiment, conducted a Sunday school, and preached nearly every Sabbath. He died suddenly of acute congestion of the lungs, after a short illness, Sunday morning, April 4, 1897. Strong in faith, and with songs of praise on his lips, he passed peacefully to his reward. In the large audience at his funeral were the children of his mission school, who at the close of the service gathered around his lifeless form and sang the appropriate song, "Some Sweet Day." The beautiful incident is forever written upon the memory of those present. As man and an ambassador of the Lord Jesus he is worthy to be held in lasting remembrance.

Henry Martyn Harman was born in Anne Arundel County, Md., March 22, 1822, and died in Baltimore July 2, 1897. His early life was spent on a farm. In his seventeenth year he was converted and joined the Church at Elk Ridge Landing. A license to exhort in 1843 was followed the next year by a local preacher's license. He entered Dickinson College in 1845, making such progress that at Christmas he was promoted to the sophomore class. His taste and talent for the languages showed themseves before he entered college, for without an instructor he read Xenophon's Anabasis and Jacob's Greek Reader. It is told, concerning his early collegiate life, that Dr. McClintock once found him committing the Greek Lexicon to memory, he having already mastered many pages. For a number of years after graduation he taught in the Baltimore Female College, and later was associated for nine years with the Light Street Institute, in Baltimore. In 1868 he was professor of languages in the West Virginia University, resigning the next year to visit Europe and the Orient. On his return home he published A Journey to Egypt and the Holy Land. In 1870 he became a professor of ancient languages and literature in Dickinson College, and in 1879 was transferred to the chair of Greek and Hebrew, which he retained until his resignation two years ago. The trustees, in accepting it, made him emeritus professor of Greek and Hebrew. In 1866 the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon him by his alma mater, and in 1886 that of Doctor of Laws by Wesleyan University, Middletown. He was received on trial in the Baltimore Conference in 1871. In August, 1872, he married Miss Hannah V. Davis, of Baltimore, who survives him. While teaching in Baltimore he took high rank as a preacher, and his services were constantly sought. His sermons excelled in exposition, being packed with the richest truth, and so presented that the average mind might seize it. The work that will perpetuate his name among the great authors of our times is his Introduction to the Study of the Holy Scriptures. His accumulation of biblical learning was immense, entitling him to the recognition he received as an authority in that field. In the Greek and Hebrew languages and the cognate tongues he ranked among the most learned. He was for years a member of the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, preparing and reading before it many critical papers. He often received letters from other countries as well as his own, asking his opinion on controverted passages of Scripture and his construction of words in the original tongue. His Christian character was beautiful in its simplicity and sincerity. All immodest self-parade was abhorrent to him. In the midst of all the so-called new discoveries of the theological world his faith in the essentials of the Gospel stood firm. Near the close of life he testified: "My studies have convinced me that Christianity rests upon the most solid basis of facts; its moral and religious teachings find a response and confirmation in my heart and assure me that the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation." In this faith he died, having the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. A letter from Henry M. Stanley gives the estimate formed of him by the great English explorer after acquaintance begun on a vessel off the coast of Asia Minor. "In his death," says Mr. Stanley, "America has lost one whom I consider to be a type of human goodness, one of exceeding simplicity of manners, but of intrinsic worth and rare piety. After knowing him one felt what it was to be possessed of 'the beauty of holiness,' while his solid learning and richly endowed mind gave a charm to everything he said and created love and admiration for him. It is now close on to thirty years since we traveled together; but my recollections of the esteem and affection he kindled in me are as fresh as though he spoke to me but yesterday. What a world this would be if each day of our lives were marked by the happy incident of meeting a truly noble man and Christian like Dr. Harman!"

John F. Ockerman was born October 29, 1835, in East Juniata Township, Pa. At sixteen he was apprenticed to learn the saddler's trade, believing that by his trade he could educate himself for the legal profession, toward which he was strongly inclined. In December, 1852, while kneeling at the altar he accepted Christ. On Christmas Day he was received on probation. He joined a praying band of eight or ten persons, and prayed by himself in secret four times a day. The following February, while praying in a stable to which he went for private devotions, there came a call to the ministry. After resistance he finally yielded. He served his full apprenticeship, and the evening of the day it ended found him at Rainesburg Seminary with twenty dollars in his pocket, a call to the ministry ringing in his soul, and a will to equip himself with the best education he could secure. Fifteen hours a day he devoted to studies, one hour to physical exercise, and eight hours to eating and sleeping. When his funds became exhausted he replenished them by teaching. In 1857 he was admitted to the Baltimore Conference on trial and assigned to work in the East Baltimore Conference. With the latter he was connected until the rearrangement of Conference boundaries in 1868, when he went to the Central Pennsylvania Conference, remaining there four years, and returning to the Baltimore Conference in 1872. On December 10, 1863, he married Miss Margaret B. Armstrong, who survives him. His appointments were as follows: Birmingham, Frostburg, Westernport, North Baltimore Station, West Falls, Liberty Circuit, Westminster, Hancock, Hagerstown, Northumberland, Price Chapel, Williamsport; Sheperdstown, Martinsburg, Havre de Grace, East Baltimore, Wesley Chapel, Baltimore; Mount Zion, Washington; Emory, Baltimore; Caroline Street, Baltimore; Mount Washington, Canton Street, Baltimore; superannuated. He was not indoctrinated in Methodist theology in childhood, but it came to him later like a revelation, and satisfied him. His soul thirsted after daily experience of religion, and was filled. Although modest in testimony, perfect love was to him more than a theory, it was a feast. In moments of rapt prayer or appeal his spirit burned as with Pentecostal fire, and at times it seemed a wonder that the body was not sooner consumed. None came to his ministry seeking bread and receiving a stone. Some of his pastorates were blessed by revivals of unusual extent. This was notably the case at Hagerstown, Havre de Grace, and East Baltimore. He greatly desired to march forty years in the effective ranks, but at the end of the thirty-ninth year, feeling that he lacked sufficient strength, he yielded to the inevitable with sweet resignation, and retired to his modest home on North Calvert Street, in Baltimore. During his long illness the faith he had preached to others was sufficient for him. When it became apparent to him that the end could not be far away his anchor held sure and steadfast. Early in the morning of January 24, 1898, he was absent from the body and at home with the Lord.

Amos J. Bender was born July 31, 1828, at Bendersville, Pa., and died June 30, 1897, at Dublin, Md. Converted in boyhood, he began in 1855 the itinerant's career as supply on St. Mary's Circuit. He joined the Baltimore Conference on trial in 1856, and was assigned to Frederick Circuit. His subsequent appointments were Liberty, Green Village, Coalmont, New Granada, New Washington, Alleghany, Harper's Ferry, Middletown, Gorsuch, Fletcher, St. Mary's, Severn, North Harford. By reason of impaired health he held either the superannuated or supernumerary relation from 1863 to 1867 and from 1879 to 1887. The fields he served were almost without exception places where the work was arduous and the support scanty. Yet he was never known to complain. An opportunity to gratify the supreme passion of his life, the winning of souls, seemed to compensate him for all privation. As a preacher he was plain, practical, meltingly tender. In revival work he was at his best, and especially during the earlier and middle years of his ministry witnessed large ingatherings. His distinguishing traits were humility, gentleness, conscientiousness, and the charity that thinketh and speaketh no evil. The joy of the Lord abounded in his experience. In his last illness, acute bronchitis, he anticipated death without a shade of fear. "It has come sooner than I expected," he said, "but it is all right." As the end drew nearer serenity changed to holy rapture. "I have the victory, the victory!" he exclaimed. Just before his departure, with a shining face he whispered: "O, that I had strength, that I might tell you of the beauties of the beyond!" On September 9, 1858, he married Miss Elizabeth Schleichter, of Chambersburg, who, with four children survives. A daughter, Elizabeth A. Bender, is a missionary in Japan, and a son, Simpson A. Bender, is in the East Maine Conference. "A faithful minister of Jesus Christ" we write above his grave.

New York Conference.

Zephaniah Drake Scoby was born in Chester, N. J., December 15, 1817. When five years old his parents moved to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and in that vicinity he resided until twenty-one. Before reaching his majority he gave his heart to God and his name to the Church. At Amenia Seminary and Oneida Institute he spent six years, except when teaching to defray his expenses. In 1845 he was received into the New York Conference and stationed at Croton. His subsequent appointments were Glenham, West Point, Canaan and West Stockbridge, South Canaan, Durham, Jefferson, and Summit. He married Miss Eleanor Anderson. In 1855 his ill health compelled him to take a supernumerary relation, and from 1856 till his death he was superannuated. Hoping that the climate of the West might restore his wasted powers, in 1859 he removed to a farm in Iowa. With the partial restoration of his health he served as State agent of the American Bible Society, and afterward as financial agent of Upper Iowa University. In 1873 he was appointed postmaster at Fayette, Ia., which position he held for thirteen years. In January, 1875, he was bereaved by the death of his wife. In June, 1877, he married Miss Catherine Alexander. After faithfully serving Fayette County for two years as clerk of the district court he removed to Chicago, where he resided at his death. To him life's battle was a severe struggle, but with unflinching heroism he won in the conflict. His final sufferings were at times intense. Much of the time was spent in prayer and praise. While partially slumbering prayer for the Church and the conversion of the world was his theme. On April 15, 1897, he peacefully fell asleep. A man of strict integrity, his unblemished character is worthy of imitation. A wife, three sons, and two daughters remain.

William W. Taylor was born in Stamford, N. Y., December 3, 1835, and died in Oneonta, N. Y., May 1, 1897. He was educated in the academies of Stamford, Roxbury, and Charlotteville. He also taught for several terms. While young he was converted and united with the Church. In 1859 he was licensed as a local preacher, and in 1860 joined the New York Conference. He labored efficiently upon the following charges: Livingstonville, North Franklin, Eminence, East Jewett, Dormansville, North Blenheim, Davenport, Clovesville, Pike Pond, Stone Ridge, North Newburgh, New Windsor, New Windsor and Salisbury Mills, Shrub Oak, Kerhonkson, West Taghkanick, Spencertown, and Harlemville. Excepting four years, when he was partally disabled, his labor was uninterrupted until 1891, when impaired health compelled him to take a superannuated relation. In 1861 he married Adelaide Hammond, of Conesville, N. Y. At the end of six years she died. Four years later Isabella Emmons, of North Franklin, became his wife. She, with four sons and three daughters, survives. About three weeks previous to his decease he was taken suddenly ill with heart disease. Though at times his sufferings were severe, no complaint fell from his lips. He was a devoted Christian, a true friend, a faithful preacher, and a good pastor. At times, under the influence of the Holy Spirit, his preaching, prayers, and exhortations were characterized by a fervor which moved all hearts. Through his instrumentality many souls were saved and many churches edified.

Abraham Davis was born in Rye, N. Y., on August 24, 1819, and died July 17, 1897. He was educated in the excellent common schools of the village, and was brought up in a home where he was taught to fear God, love righteousness, and hate sin. On the Sabbaths his father, Elijah M. Davis, was often away attending the meetings of the New York Praying Band, he being one of the most powerful exhorters of his time. During the week the boy heard much of the spiritual victories of these holy men. His mother, Mary, was a sister of Schurman and Samuel Halstead. He was converted at White Plains while yet a youth, and entered the New York Conference as a probationer in 1845. He filled the following appointments: Charlotte, Catskill, Delaware Mission, Prattsville, Pawling, Norfolk, Greenburg, Greenburg and Tuckahoe, Dutchess, Amenia, Fishkill, West Forty-third Street, New York; supernumerary, Milan, Ancram, West Taghkanick and West Gallatin, East Chatham and Red Rock, Hillsdale, Pleasant Valley and Washington Hollow, Kensico and Armonk, Ashford, New Hamburg and Carthage Landing, Carthage Landing. From 1883 to 1889 he was supernumerary, and from 1891 to 1897 superannuated. He had a bright, cheerful face. In the home of his childhood, to which he returned for his last fifteen years, he was known as "Father Sunshine." But his qualities, above all others, that fitted him for the ministry were spiritual. Divine things were to him vivid and intensely real. By his own experience he was a constant interpreter of the word of God, and did more to make men believe in religion than many a great preacher by his great sermons. He was a model superannuated minister. Among those contributing for a tablet to his memory were a number of Roman Catholics. One of these men said, "Mr. Davis did me more good when he visited me when I was sick than anyone who came into my house, and it seemed to me that he must come and see me. I love him more than any man I know, and our hearts ran together." There never was in any community a man more deeply loved, more widely respected.

Daniel D. Gillespie was born in Montgomery, N. Y., October 1, 1832, and died at Marlboro, N. Y., September 17, 1897. In 1858 he was admitted to the New York Conference. He began his ministry at Esopus, and his succeeding appointments were: New Windsor, Rossville, Pleasant Valley, Warwick, Monroe, Cornwall, North Newburgh, Shrub Oak, Poughquag, and Marlboro, in each of which he remained the full term of years. At the beginning of his second pastorate, in 1860, he married Sarah P. Elmore, who survives him, with a son and a daughter. He never went to a place that was not helped by his presence; he never removed from a place where his removal was not regretted. Earnest in the pulpit and loving in the home, he was a man who won the respect of all. At the end of his pastorate in Marlboro, in 1884, because of failing health, he retired from the active ministry, and till his death made Marlboro his home. Until his strength was gone he was never absent from the house of God in any hour of worship. Through the summer of 1897 his strength constantly failed, and in the early autumn he went to his reward. His last words were those of faith and hope, his last breath was a song.

Noble Lovett was born June 4, 1825, in the city of New York. While very young the family moved to Monticello, N. Y., to engage in farming. He was only a lad when he gave his heart to God and united with the Church in Monticello. Improving his talents and serving the Church as he could, he was about to adopt active measures for a more liberal education when there came an urgent appeal from the presiding elder of the Delaware District to accept a local preacher's license, and take ■ charge left vacant by the death of its pastor. This call he accepted. In May, 1850, he was received as ■ probationer in the New York Conference in our ministry and appointed to the Kortright Circuit. The year was one of large revivals, ■ feature of his success on every charge he served. His subsequent appointments were: Charlotte, Windham, Franklin, Hancock, Kingsbridge and Fordham, Prattsville, and Jefferson. Then, though still a young man, and having accomplished only nine years of service, he was compelled, on account of failing health, to ask for a supernumerary relation, never again to take regular work. In the pulpit his impressive manner and voice of remarkable power, held in equipoise by a good intellect, and all fervidly aglow with the Holy Spirit, combined to make him an unusually effective preacher. His sermons were cogent presentations of the vital doctrines of Christianity. He preached to get men saved, and hundreds were converted through his instrumentality. He was granted superannuation by the Conference of 1860. He had now entered upon such a trial by bodily affliction as is seldom equaled in human experience. But unspeakably precious to him was the promise, "As thy days, so shall thy strength be." Through all his prolonged suffering no uncharitable words marred the gentleness of his spirit. In 1856 he married Miss Marion Peck, of Roxbury, N. Y. She died in 1869, leaving to the invalid father the care of their four children. His son, in writing to him on his seventy-second and last birthday, said, in the terms of filial devotion, "In the rush and strife of life I can never forget you, the best father a child ever had." In October, 1897, his trembling form, reduced to weakness through chronic disease, was attacked by pneumonia, and on the 21st of the month there came to him release from bodily sufferings.

Ananias Ackerly was born January 31, 1811, and on November 6, 1897, died at Kingston, N. Y. From ■ strong Christian ancestry he inherited unusual qualities of intellect and will. At nineteen he was graciously converted. Shortly after his conversion he was called to the ministry and began to preach as a supply under the presiding elder. In 1839 he joined the New York Conference. He fell upon the controversial period. By nature a close reasoner and an able theologian, he imposed upon himself a rigid discipline in logic and the laws of thought. There were giants in the New York Conference in those days, and he early won a reputation among them as an able defender of the faith. His ministerial record is as follows: Granby, Colebrook, Ellsworth, Cornwall, Cranby and Tariffville, supernumerary, Callicoon, Deposit, Marbletown, Stone Ridge, Monticello, Wurtsboro, Middletown, Stone Ridge, Coeymans, Charlotteville, Delhi, Croton. In 1871 his voice failed, and from that year he held the superannuated relation. For many years he had been waiting the call from God. The period of the full corn in the ear had come. His unwavering faith gave him the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. In 1834 he married Martha L. Clum. They were permitted to share life's experience together for more than sixty years, and on April 21, 1896, she preceded him to the home above. Their two sons are membersof the New York Conference. Full of years and good works, he rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.
